

Santa to officially arrive

City lights Christmas tree Friday night

Two major events of the Christmas season take place at Romulus City Hall Friday night.

Santa Claus will officially arrive in the city that evening and his appearance will also herald the annual Christmas Tree Lighting Ceremony on the city hall lawn.

After Santa Claus, accompanied by Christmas Carol, arrives by the unusual means of a fire truck at 7 p.m., he will be presented with a key to the city by new Romulus Mayor William M. Oakley.

The annual event, which was attended by some 700 children and 300 adults last year, is open to the public.

Amy Anderson, 5, a muscular dystrophy poster girl, will throw the switch that lights the large Christmas tree on city hall lawn and ignites the beautiful Christmas decorations adorning the municipal buildings.

The choir of Romulus United Methodist Church will lead the public in singing Christmas songs during the gala event.

Following the tree lighting ceremony, Santa Claus will be the guest of honor at a Christmas party in the community room in city hall from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Each child to visit Santa will have the chance to ask for the gift they want to receive Christmas morning.

Free candy, fruit and gifts were handed out to approximately 700 children at the Christmas Tree Lighting ceremony last December and Marie Debuyscher, recreation director, expects as many or more this Friday evening.

"It's always a wonderful time of the year for the people of Romulus and it's really a thrill to see the young children given free gifts, candy and fruit at the tree lighting ceremony each year," said Mrs. Debuyscher, who heads up the Christmas season special.

"A very large turnout is expected and we urge everyone to come early so we can start right at 7 p.m.," she said.

Petitions filed Monday

School trustees face recall

By BOBAMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

If every stitch falls perfectly in place, five of the seven members of the Romulus School Board could be recalled in about three months.

The board's attitude to the public, poor public relations on the millage election, and its assessment of priorities in restoring programs and services after the successful millage election in November, were cited as among chief reasons for the recall bid.

According to Mrs. Jean Voight, one of about a dozen committee members working for the recall, concerned parents who show up at school board meetings are made to feel like they aren't wanted.

"It seems that after they were elected, they forgot that they are supposed to be public servants. They act like we shouldn't be there. We don't feel welcome by their attitude," she remarked.

Mrs. Voight, the mother of two grade school children said she got into the recall drive "not to hurt people, but because it had to be done."

"I'm doing in the best interests of the children in the community. I just happen to be a housewife who cares," she added.

She said her group, spearheaded by Mrs. Theresa Kraft, numbers 30 to 35 parents and school district voters who are still dissatisfied with five board trustees. They are: President Gerald Budd, Secretary Gloria Chandler, Treasurer Ronald Christensen, Gordon Silvers, and Vice President...

(Bath resigned at the board's last meeting. Therefore, his name on the petition is merely a technical formality, she said.)

Although Mrs. Voight said the elimination of busing was the group's original reason for the recall drive when it began last Sept. 24, the group is still not happy.

"Because someone rights a wrong, that doesn't mean that they were not wrong in the first place," she said. She added that her group feels the board made a mistake and used bad judgment in ordering the cutback in busing.

She also cited the board's recent restoration of programs and services, in the wake of the approval by voters of 8.5 mills, reflected unrealistic priorities.

"One of the things the board voted to do was to spend $25,000 to improve lighting at Beverly Elementary School. At the same time, it approved a committee to investigate the closing of several schools, including Beverly school. It doesn't seem to make much sense," she said.

Of particular importance to those supporting the recall effort was what Mrs. Voight termed "a lack of communications between the board and the public, and lack of communications between the administration and the board, on the recent millage election."

Although she admitted the language on the ballot was clearly stated at the millage election, she said many taxpayers who voted "yes" were unaware of what they had voted for.

"Most of them do not know that the millage they voted for on last Nov. 8 is retroactive to last January and that they will have to pay for the whole first year very shortly," she said.

She said it would be more fair if taxpayers paid a smaller portion of the first year of the five-year levy, possibly half.

At the last board meeting, she said she questioned several board members on the retroactive aspect of the millage.

"Most of them were confused even now and were unclear about the whole thing," she asserted.

On Monday, the group turned in recall petitions to Supt. James Garfield, who in turn, will give them to Clerk Leonard Folmar for checking of signatures for validity. Lacking funds for legal counsel, she said, they asked around until they found the proper course of action to follow.

Folmar has 15 days to check the names on the petitions before declaring them sufficient or insufficient. If deemed sufficient, he will turn them over to the Wayne County clerk for verification. If he approves the names on the petitions, he has 15 days to notify a committee to set up the recall election within 60 days.

Therefore, according to Folmar, the minimum amount of time for a recall election, after he receives the petitions, is 90 days.

Mrs. Voight said her group obtained a minimum of 1,584 and a maximum of 1,604 names on the petitions for recall, more than the 1,300 required.

Newspaper boys for a worthy cause

Romulus Goodfellows will be on their annual mission of charity Saturday as they man the major street intersections and shopping areas selling newspapers. Proceeds of the Christmas season fundraiser will go to help needy and underprivileged families in the area. Last year a record number of families were helped and the Goodfellows hope to do even better this year. Any local people who know of Romulus residents needing help are asked to call and give needy family's name to Fire Chief John Wilhide at 941-0666. Those who will help sell the newspapers include Leo Randall, Romulus reserve officer; Jim Darnell, fireman; Chief Wilhide; Mayor William M. Oakley; Goodfellow Co-chairman Jerry Kubiak; David Knight, fireman; and Gertrude Noeyack, Romulus reserve police officer.

Goodfellows paper sales to benefit needy children

Romulus Goodfellows will be out in full force Saturday to carry on the tradition of "No kiddie without a Christmas."

A large group of volunteer workers, headed by Chairman Fred Williams and Co-chairman Jerry Kubiak will cover all the major intersections of the city as well as large shopping areas.

Each Christmas the Goodfellows sell the newspapers and give the proceeds to needy and underprivileged families.

Helping in the drive will be Goodfellows' treasurer Bob Lee, along with volunteers from fire and police officers, the Sheriff's Romulus Reserve unit, and other interested citizens, including Mayor William Oakley.

"In 1975 we were able to help 222 families," Kubiak said, "and last year we were able to assist even more than that number."

"We're looking to increase last year's number of families helped and set a new record. We're thankful for the dedicated volunteers who come from all parts of the city's population to help in this annual drive to help needy families in the true Christmas spirit," Kubiak said.

Kubiak, who has helped head up the Goodfellows' drive for several years now, pointed out that the group has gone to giving out gift certificates.

"That way, they can be cashed in for food, clothing and toys for the needy families. The amount of the certificate will depend upon the generosity of the good people of Romulus," Kubiak said.

The Goodfellows' tradition of selling newspapers at Christmas time came about when some old newsboys, who had grown into adults, returned to the streets to help the less fortunate have a happy Christmas.

Residents of Romulus who know of local families who need food, clothing or toys for Christmas are asked to call Fire Chief John Wilhide at 941-0666 and give their name and situation.

"Helping someone in need is the biggest reward of all," said one longtime Goodfellow.

Citizens of the community are urged to lend their financial support to this sincere desire on the part of local residents to do something for their needy neighbors — give a merry Christmas to them and their children.

So when you drive up to that red light and a Goodfellow approaches you with newspaper in hand, you be a "good fellow" and roll down your window and contribute generously.

Air mail cited as alternative

Ban lifted on foreign parcel post

The Romulus post office has been informed that the embargo on surface international mail has been lifted and it can now accept parcel post to foreign countries.

Jack Vrabel, officer-in-charge of the U.S. Postal Service in Romulus, recommends using air mail as an alternative to surface mail which will insure, he says, delivery by Christmas.

"All the employees of the Romulus post office and I would like to express season's greetings to all the residents in the city and wish them a happy and healthy 1978," he said.

Vrabel also released the post office schedule from now until Christmas. On Sat., Dec. 10, the windows will be open from 8:30 a.m. until noon, and closed Dec. 11.

Monday through Friday, Dec. 11-16, hours will be from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

On Sat., Dec. 17, the windows will be open from 8:30 a.m. until noon, and post office will be closed Dec. 18.

From Monday through Friday, Dec. 19-23, the hours will be 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. The post office will be closed on Saturday, Sunday and Monday, Dec. 24, 25 and 26.

Vrabel urged everyone to mail their cards and packages as soon as possible.

Take a few precautions. . .

Then sit back and enjoy the holidays

Reflections of colored lights bounce off the sparkling ornaments that hang from the tree. All is well with the world, and you feel safe and secure.

And you will be safe if you take a few precautions before you sit back and enjoy the holidays.

Every year fires and severe electric shocks from holiday decorations end the season abruptly for thousands of Americans. Sports and recreation equipment and toys — great holiday gifts — also increase the injury toll, if they are not selected and used with care.

The following accidents were taken from the files of the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission. The names are fictitious, the facts are true.

Malfunctioning Christmas tree lights threw off sparks that ignited the presents and carpets underneath the tree in the Fisher home. Lorraine tried to put out the fire, but it spread rapidly through two floors of her apartment building, causing $250,000 in damage. Some residents had to jump off their balconies to escape the smoke and fire.

Six-month-old Jack fell onto his toy truck. The metal prongs on the truck penetrated his skull and had to be removed at a hospital emergency room. He was hospitalized for two days.

Thirteen-year-old Peter Daly was permanently paralyzed from his waist down when he fell off his skateboard after it hit a rise in the sidewalk.

To help you prevent such accidents and keep your holiday season joyful, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission offers these safety suggestions.

TREES

A dry tree is a fire hazard, so before you buy a cut tree, check it for freshness. The needles on a fresh tree will bend; needles on a dry tree feel brittle and break, or fall off, when you try to bend them. When you bring your tree home, cut the butt end off diagonally one or two inches from the bottom. The diagonal cut allows more water to be absorbed into the tree.

Make sure the tree is held securely in a sturdy tree stand. Fill the tree stand with enough water to completely cover the cut line and check it every day to make sure there is plenty of water in it.

Set your tree up away from the fireplace, heat vents and other heat sources. And make sure it is not in a heavy traffic area where it could be knocked over.

LIGHTS AND DECORATIONS

Before you put the tree lights on, check the strings for frayed or exposed wiring, loose connections and broken or cracked sockets. Throw

THOMAS O'ROURKE

Thomas P. O'Rourke, managing director and airport manager for the Wayne County Road Commission, has been appointed chairman of the Airport Security Committee of the Airport Operators Council International. The committee concentrates on policies and problems of aviation security affecting members of the worldwide airport association. O'Rourke's position as managing director involves operation of roads, parks and the water system of Wayne County. The commission also operates Detroit Metropolitan-Wayne County and Willow Run airports. A U.S. Army veteran, he attended the University of Detroit and in 1968 joined the staff of the mayor of Detroit as an assistant coordinator for industrial and commercial development. He was elected county commissioner in 1969 and served 2½ terms before being appointed to the road commission. After a year as a commissioner he assumed his present post. The Airport Operators Council International represents the governmental bodies responsible for the development and operation of the public air carrier airports in the United States.

out, or carefully repair, any damaged sets. Replace burned out bulbs before you put the strings on the tree, so you don't have to stretch to some hard-to-reach place later. Be careful not to overload extension cords and wall sockets.

Never decorate metal trees with electric lights. This could present a severe shock hazard. Instead, use a colored spotlight to light up the tree.

When you put on the ornaments, remember to place the delicate glass ornaments high on the tree, out of the reach of children and pets. And don't use lighted candles to decorate your tree; they can easily start a fire.

For outdoor lighting, make sure the lights are designed and clearly marked for outdoor use. As with the indoor tree lights, check the strings carefully before you set them up outside. Always turn off and unplug your holiday lights, inside and outside, when you leave the house or go to bed.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission has put together a checklist for toys and recreational equipment for your convenience.

TOYS

Keep the child's age, interests, and skill level in mind, especially when you buy toys for pre-schoolers:

- Look for well-constructed toys.
- Make sure there are not sharp edges or points on the toys.
- Check for small, loosely attached parts, including buttons, that can be pulled off and swallowed.
- Avoid toys that produce excessive noise that can damage hearing and propelled objects that can injure eyes.
- Electrical toys with heating elements should only be bought for children 8 years and older.
- Remember that adult supervision can prevent accidents.

SPORTS AND RECREATION EQUIPMENT

- Select equipment that is right for the age, size and interest of the person. A child could lose control, for instance, of too large a bicycle that he is supposed to "grow into".
- Look for well-built equipment.
- Buy protective gear for competitive sports.

SKATEBOARDS

- Look for a well-constructed skateboard.
- Make sure both the wheels and trucks (connects wheel and board) are properly secured. They should be checked regularly during use.

— Beginners should practice the basics before trying tricky maneuvers.

— Never skateboard in the street or around cars.

— Wear tennis shoes, long pants and a long-sleeve shirt. Even better, dress like serious skateboarders do: elbow pads, knee pads, heavy gloves and helmet.

The following safety tips are for specific winter sports equipment:

SKI EQUIPMENT

— Equipment must be properly fitted, adjusted and maintained. The beginner should rely on a reputable ski shop for fit and adjustment.

— The ski boot should fit well into the binding. To avoid a mismatch, take the boots along when you purchase bindings at a ski shop.

SNOWMOBILES

When you buy, look for:

— Guards for the drive chain and all other moving parts.

— Adequate padding on the dash, steering bar, and back end of the seat.

— A snowflap in back to keep snow off the tail light.

— A windshield which does not have a sharp edge that the driver could hit on collision.

— A built-in emergency shut-off switch that is easy to reach.

— Shielding around exhaust pipes and other high temperature engine parts to protect you from burns.

When you use a snowmobile, wear warm, windproof protective clothing, including snowmobile-type mittens and felt inner-liner boots. A safety helmet and goggles are necessary.

SLEDS, TOBOGGANS AND SNOW DISKS

- Check for sturdy construction.
- Look for secure handholds.
- Avoid equipment with sharp, jagged edges and protruding rivets.
- Look for an energy-absorbing pad for the seat of toboggans.
- Check sleds for easy steering without jamming.

The holiday season should be a happy time for everyone. Don't let yours be spoiled by an unfortunate accident. Buy carefully, use properly, and enjoy the warm memories of a safe holiday.

If you want further information, or wish to report a product hazard or a product-related injury, write to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington, D.C. 20207. In the continental United States, call the toll-free safety hotline 800-638-2666.

Watershed Council to air HCMA plans, activities

The activities and plans of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority (HCMA) concerning parks on the Huron River system will be the topic of an open public meeting to be held tomorrow. Sponsored by the Huron River Watershed Council, the session is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers of Ann Arbor City Hall, Huron Street and Fifth Avenue in Ann Arbor.

According to council executive secretary, Owen Jansson, the major purpose of the meeting is to provide Watershed Council delegates, governmental officials, and the general public an updated report on proposed metroparks for the Huron River system.

Jansson noted that the activities and plans of the Huron-Clinton authority should be of interest to all inhabitants of the region, since HCMA is the second largest landowner in the watershed and the authority's operations are financed largely through a direct property tax levy on property owners in the five-county area served.

HCMA was established by legislative act in 1940 for the purpose of providing outdoor recreational opportunities in the Huron and Clinton river basins.

Speakers for the program will include Robert Bryan, secretary and development manager of HCMA. Bryan will review locations and development plans for proposed parks, such as Indian Springs, Green Oaks and Lake Erie, and will also touch on some of the new developments at existing facilities such as Hudson Mills.

The Huron River Watershed Council, sponsor of the meeting, is an intergovernmental agency organized to promote cooperation and coordination between units of government on water resource issues in the drainage basin of the Huron River, and to keep the total watershed public informed on such issues.

For further information on the meeting, or on the council and its activities, contact Jansson, executive secretary, at 665-0514.

Bill would standardize credit card finance fees

Legislation establishing a uniform method of computing finance charges for retail credit cards issued in Michigan has been introduced by State Sen. David A. Plawcki, (D-12th District).

The two-bill package, said Plawcki, is primarily intended to clarify the finance procedure for consumers and enable them to avoid paying unnecessary interest.

The number and complexity of finance formulas now in effect for credit cards make them too difficult for many consumers to know how to get the most for their money," he said. "For example, 'I doubt that the majority of consumers realize that some companies compute finance charges on a daily basis and that the best savings could be realized by paying the bill as soon as the statement is received rather than budgeting the payment for the end of the month.'"

"I also believe that many people are under the impression that their finance charges are based solely on balances remaining from their last statement, when in practice, many companies are figuring new purchases for which a consumer has not yet seen a statement into finance charge formulas," Plawcki added. "Under the uniform financing formula I am proposing, a consumer should be able to clearly understand the precise amount upon which the finance charge is based."

Plawcki's formula would require that before the finance charge is computed, any payments would have to be subtracted from the unpaid balance. In addition, charges made during the current billing period could not be included as part of that unpaid balance.

The balance remaining would be multiplied by no more than the allowable interest rate (1.5 percent) to determine the finance charge.

Finance charges allowed on retail cards issued by department stores, oil companies, etc., would be reduced under Plawcki's measure from 1.7 to 1.5 percent monthly.

"Another significant provision in this legislation," said Plawcki, "is the requirement that consumers be notified in the event of any sort of payment which would be larger than the average installment payment."

RHS gains recognition for its career ed work

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus High School is becoming well-known all over the state for its work in the field of career education.

Led by innovative E.L. Sheffield, the local program has become a model concept and is being copied by the State Dept. of Education for use in many other school districts.

R.H.S. made a film strip on its career education program, using students, teachers, business and community people and parents in completing the instructional film.

The Michigan Dept. of Education and Michigan PTA co-sponsored a series of conferences around the state on career education.

So impressed were state and other education officials that the state duplicated 100 copies of the Romulus High School film strip for showing in other localities to explain the concept of career education.

"We are delighted that Career Education in Romulus Schools is being used as a model system or concept around the state," Sheffield said.

Participants in the statewide series of workshops included staff members of the State Dept. of Education, representatives of business and industry, career educators from local school districts, members of legislative delegations in Washington and Lansing, and also many parents.

"Career Education embraces all elements of education and requires cooperative participation of both school officials and the community," Sheffield said.

"Much thought and planning has been injected into the curriculum, encompassing self-awareness, career exploitation and decision-making.

"The students incorporate their academics and the role of work into a joint learning experience," he continued. "Basic studies become more meaningful that way."

Sheffield said most of the success of Romulus' career education program comes from getting students directly involved.

"Language skills are better instilled when a letter is written by a student and actually mailed by a letter carrier," he noted.

"Likewise, math and language becomes more interesting when a recipe is carefully followed in making 'Dinosaur Soup'.

Sheffield added, "Knowledge of self and the relationship to others may be explained through occupational role-playing -- such as trying out tools, weighing produce, manufacturing a checker game in assembly line fashion or making an item for exchange or sale.

"Career education utilized academics by being taught in a practical setting," Sheffield concluded in describing the local program.

Sheffield is proud of the local career education program and believes it's very productive and helpful.

And people all around the state who have seen the program agree with him.

Give thanks

The recent Thanksgiving Dinner at Hale Creek Elementary School in Romulus was a tremendous success as teachers, students, parents and relatives cooperated in a joint effort to celebrate the season. A full dinner of roast turkey with a wide assortment of trimmings greeted a large turnout which enjoyed the meal in the school's cafeteria. Shown here is part of the enthusiastic group which shared the dinner during the Thanksgiving season.

Romulus officials told

Money lacking for new post office

Although the Romulus city administration is vigorously pursuing a plan to get a new post office building here, first word from the man who counts — Joseph J. Loukotka, Detroit postmaster — put a damper on the proposal.

The postmaster was asked to respond to a letter and council — passed resolution sent last Thursday by Mayor William M. Oakley to his office requesting that a new post office be built next to the municipal center complex on land already owned by the federal government.

Loukotka said he had not seen Oakley's letter, so he could not comment in detail on his request. However, he said Romulus does have its own post office, although its 20 mail carriers work out of the Taylor post office.

Last year, the U.S. Postal Service, then under a nationwide economy drive, cut back on postal operations in Romulus, transferring mail carriers to Taylor and leaving only two windows open at the old post office for sales of stamps, money orders, food stamps and some parcel post service.

... a new post office would 'restore lost faith in our federal government'...

Library helpers 'open up books' to the community

They say "you can't tell a book by its cover", so a group of ambitious Romulus ladies is trying to help local citizens increase their thirst for knowledge.

Their ultimate goal is to get books into the hands of shut-ins, persons in convalescent homes, youngsters and adults.

Called "Friends of the Library", the ladies' group is in its formative stages and will meet at 7:30 p.m. today in the Romulus Public Library, 11111 So. Wayne Rd.

"The aim of the 'Friends' is to bring the library alive for everyone through cultural, informational and just plain 'fun' activities," explained Ann Manikowski, who is heading up the new volunteers.

"We want to invite every woman in Romulus to join in with us to help organize a volunteer crew of women to help in all aspects of the library," she said.

According to the leaders of the new group, they want to not only help residents appreciate the wealth of culture found in books but they want to help the library itself.

"Our work will be centered around books and we will want to take books and read to people at convalescent homes and other places," said another member of the Friends of the Library.

"But, in addition, we want to raise money to buy things for the library that cannot be purchased through the regular budget. For instance, new drapes are badly needed to improve the looks of our beautiful library.

"Also, other things are needed, but especially volunteer workers to help head librarian Diane Hazen.

The newly-formed group of library-helpers are excited about the possibilities and hope that many other women in Romulus will join in their efforts to push the positive aspects of books for their cultural value.

"At the same time, we can have a lot of fun working together and helping the library," Mrs. Manikowski said.

Women who are interested in "Friends of the Library" concept, are urged to come to tonight's meeting at 7:30 or to call Mrs. Hazen at the library at 941-0775.

Oakley started the local drive to get a new post office facility at a recent meeting of "We the People" when he passed out 50 petitions to be circulated throughout the city. Since then, the city council unanimously approved a resolution asking federal representatives of the city to intercede in its behalf.

Copies of the resolution were sent to Detroit Postmaster Loukotka, Senators Robert Griffin and Don Riegle, Rep. William D. Ford and the U.S. Postal Service.

Council action to send the resolution came after some 1,000 names on petitions were presented at last week's council session.

The circulated petitions carried strong language in its request for the new postal facility, stating that local residents are "appalled and outraged" at being rated first class, but only receiving second or third class service.

The resolution also cited having "to share a postal facility with the city of Taylor, a deplorable situation unique in the United States."

The resolution mailed out last week also contained strong words, stating that the mayor and council "demand, in behalf of the 30,000 residents of the city of Romulus, that the postal Service Corporation take steps forthwith to relieve the atrocity perpetrated against the citizens of Romulus."

Action for the new postal facility for Romulus began when Oakley first took office. He was unable to determine if a letter Sept. 27 from Loukotka had been answered by ex-mayor James C. Stewart.

Loukotka's letter, according to Oakley, requested a response from the city of Romulus concerning a new post office building.

In his answer to Loukotka, the mayor took strong issue with the postmaster's earlier correspondence which indicated that postal service, as an alternative, was interested in renting a small building of only 1,782 square feet in small shopping plaza on Wayne Road, north of I-94 Expressway.

Oakley criticized the proposal as being "totally unacceptable," being too small and located too far from the flow of traffic in the city.

Instead, the mayor proposed that new post office of 16,000 square feet, already designed by the postal service, be constructed on federal owned land adjacent to the municipal center complex on Wayne Road.

Oakley also emphasized that a new postal facility in Romulus would compensate in some measure for the nine-square mile airport carved out of the city and which residents have had to endure for many years.

He stated that a new post office would "restore lost faith in our federal government and at the same time perform a great service to our city..."

Postmaster Loukotka is expected to respond to Oakley's letter and the resolution in detail.

Romulus Senior Citizens are hosting a Christmas Bazaar from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. daily through Christmas at the Recreation Drop-in Center, 36515 Bibbins.

Handicrafts, including macrame, handmade articles, knitted and crocheted items and Christmas decorations are on sale.

"The senior citizens have worked very hard and we hope the residents of Romulus will drop in and pick up some good purchases and help the Drop-in Center at the same time," said Marie Debysscher, director.

Proceeds will be used to purchase new furnishings for the senior citizens' "home away from home".

Season's greetings

The 37 members of the Romulus Division of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department would like to wish the residents of Romulus a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. Although all members of the unit could not be present for the picture, the entire section passes along their best wishes for the holiday season. Members of the group have expressed their pleasure at being considered as part of the community. "We would have it no other way."

New proposal would move jail near Hall

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has invited public comment on a proposal to build a redesigned jail complex at a new location in downtown Detroit.

Commissioner Richard E. Manning, chairman of the board's Jail Construction Subcommittee, said the new site — where the old Recorder's Court once stood — has "five major improvements over the former proposed location which abutted Greektown".

— It is immediately adjacent to the Murphy Hall of Justice and police headquarters, a full block away from Greektown.

— The structure has been redesigned into a smaller, 7-story building that would not dominate the Greektown skyline, but would, in fact, blend in with its surroundings.

— Off-street parking space has been provided.

— Traffic patterns have been revised to prevent congestion in Greektown.

— The development can be made esthetically acceptable to the entire community, and an asset rather than a liability.

The new plan calls for a 400-bed jail north of Macomb Street between the police building and St. Antoine.

A two- or three-story administrative building, which would be no higher than the Greektown buildings, and a 70-space parking lot would be located on the so-called Greektown site on the south side of Macomb.

The two buildings would be linked by tunnel.

Manning's subcommittee presented the new plan to the Board of Commissioners at a Nov. 28 meeting. The commissioners directed him to get reactions and suggestions as to possible modifications of the plan from Greektown merchants, the Detroit City Council, Detroit Mayor Coleman A. Young and the general public.

John Barr, chairman of the Board of Commissioners, emphasized that "the commissioners are sensitive to the concerns of the surrounding community".

"Let's take this new proposal to Greektown merchants, city officials and the general public for their comments," Barr stated. "We should hold as many meetings and public hearings as necessary to work out an acceptable plan so that we may complete this important public project."

Last spring, the county had planned to start construction on an 800-bed, 11-story jail situated directly behind Greektown and bounded by Beaubien, Macomb and St. Antoine. County voters had approved a new jail millage in a 1976 election.

Construction was halted when the City of Detroit's Community and Economic Development Department denied a building permit, a decision upheld by the Detroit Zoning Board of Appeals in a June 9 ruling.

The subcommittee also had recommended that up to $15,000 be allocated for design drawings.

Interested citizens may direct correspondence to the New Jail Construction Sub-Committee, 726 City-County Building, Detroit 48226.

He aids leukemia patients

Persons stricken with leukemia and other blood diseases are living longer because of blood donors like Denis Scott, Westland.

Scott is one of 90 Detroit area residents who were honored recently by Red Cross for their dedication as pheresis donors. The awards were presented at a reception sponsored by the Southeastern Michigan Red Cross Blood Center in Detroit.

An engineer at the Eaton Research Center, Scott has been "pheresed" seven times during the past year.

During the pheresis process, a specific blood component (white cells, platelets or plasma) is extracted from the donor's blood and the remaining components are returned to the blood-stream. Pheresis products are used in the treatment of leukemia and other malignant diseases, aplastic anemia and immunodeficiency diseases.

"I donate when asked because I know I can do this to help others," he said.

Although the components harvested during pheresis are not a "cure" for blood diseases, their use in therapy enables victims of the diseases to fend off life-threatening complications like a acute bacteria infection, uncontrolled bleeding or immune deficiencies.

Scott has been both a white cell and a platelet donor.

The Southeastern Michigan Red Cross Blood Center is the principal site for collecting and processing pheresis donations in the metropolitan area. Persons interested in becoming pheresis donors can call Red Cross at 833-4440.

Program features greenery

Christmas plants will be the topic of a special program to be presented at 9 a.m. Dec. 17 at the nature center of the Kensington Metropark near Milford.

From evergreens, hollies and Christmas trees to mistletoes and poinsettias, the plants we use at Christmastime have become a part of American tradition. The focus of the 1½-hour program will be the history and legends concerning the use of these plants.

Advanced registration is required.

For further information or registration, contact the nature center of Kensington Metropark at 685-1561 (Milford).

On 1977 income

Tax plan options can minimize 'charges'

Year-end efforts to minimize income taxes this year center on whether a taxpayer plans to itemize his deductible expenses or take the new standard deduction. That decision, said the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants (MACPA), will determine which of a number of tax-planning options are available.

The CPA organization pointed out that the standard deduction for 1977 tax returns is no longer a percentage of income, but rather a fixed amount — $2,200 for individuals and $3,200 for married couples filing joint returns. This represents a $200 decrease in the maximum deduction for individuals and a $400 increase for couples. The CPAs suggest that taxpayers whose deductions are anywhere near the standard deduction should re-examine their method of claiming them, computing taxes both ways to determine which is better.

Anyone paying alimony will now be able to consider taking the standard deduction, for alimony has been changed into an adjustment, which means it no longer is affected by your method of taking deductions.

The CPA Association estimates that an individual with income of $14,000 or more, and average deductions, as well as married couples at almost any income level who also have average deductions for their income brackets, may find it better to itemize.

Sometimes, taxpayers benefit by taking the standard deduction one year and itemizing the next, bunching as many deductible expenses as possible in the years in which they itemize. If for you this is a year to itemize, the CPAs advise that pre-paid interest can no longer be deducted entirely in the year of payment but only as it would come due, if paid over the life of the obligation.

However, they say, there is nothing to prevent having medical or dental work you need performed and paying for it right away, making planned 1978 charitable or religious contributions now, or even paying some state and local taxes in advance.

Also, if you are not covered by a pension or profit-sharing plan where you work, and decide to set up an Individual Retirement Account, you can defer the taxes on as much as 15 percent of 1977 income, up to $1,500, by putting the money into such an account before Feb. 14, 1978. In addition, as long as you do not exceed the 15 percent limitation, you can now put an extra $250 into your IRA for a non-working spouse. If the spouse works and also qualifies for an IRA, the two of you can contribute a total of up to $3,000 into separate IRAs.

If you are considering selling depressed stocks or other assets before year-end in order to offset gains or other income, remember there has been a change in the holding period. To create a long-term capital gain or loss an asset must now be held for more than nine months (in 1978 it goes to more than 12 months).

Up to $2,000 of ordinary income can be offset by capital losses in excess of capital gains. This is an increase from $1,000 in 1976. For 1978 and thereafter, the maximum income which can be offset increases to $3,000.

If your employer withheld taxes from the salary this year and you expect to owe Uncle Sam substantial additional amounts, see if you can have extra taxes withheld from your final 1977 paychecks. That could help you avoid a penalty.

Further advice from the CPA Association:

—Begin now to gather full documentation to support your deductions, especially those having to do with business travel or entertainment. The Internal Revenue Service is now taking hard line against the use of estimates for deductions of travel and entertainment expenses.

Are there any tax changes expected in 1978 that would affect tax plans now? The CPAs, who keep a continuing professional eye on tax developments, don't think so. They look for no major tax developments to take effect before 1979, except possibly a reduction in rates to stimulate the economy.

Humane Society says: 'Winterize your family dog'

Winter is arriving right on schedule, so the Michigan Humane Society reminds pet owners to think of winterizing their pet.

In most cases, it is perfectly all right for a dog to be kept outdoors during the winter months — if he is used to it. The average dog is able to acclimate himself to the weather, but on a gradual basis.

Naturally, a dog that is indoors most of the time shouldn't be put out for too long on a cold winter day. And, conversely, a dog with a heavy, thick coat would be most uncomfortable if made to stay indoors all day.

When a dog is left outdoors there is one requirement that must not be overlooked. It is most important that the animal has shelter available at all times. Clean straw serves as an excellent bedding and insulation for a dog house. The straw should be changed frequently, as once it becomes wet, it loses its insulation qualities. The dog house should face south, as prevailing winds are from the west and north. A piece of old carpeting makes a good flap for the doorway to prevent drafts.

Other cold weather reminders from the Michigan Humane Society are:

- (1) Feed your pets more often to provide extra energy during winter months. Such items as beef suet, meat or bacon drippings also are good additions to his winter diet.
- (2) Frequently check the food and water you put outside to make certain it doesn't freeze.
- (3) Be alert for toxic snow melting substances which could make him sick and sting his paws.

- (4) Put a sweater on your dog when you walk him. It's not a silly idea; it'll help keep him warm.

The Michigan Humane Society is offering a free pamphlet on "The Care of the Outdoor Dog". Included in the pamphlet are plans for constructing a doghouse. Simply request the brochure by calling your nearest Michigan Humane Society shelter or by writing to the Michigan Humane Society, 7401 Chrysler Drive, Detroit 48211.

An editorial opinion

An alternative to ending bulb give-away

The recent U.S. District Court decision to accept an agreement by the Detroit Edison Co. to discontinue its 90-year practice of distributing lightbulbs to its customers has provided us with an interesting view of 'Today's' Democracy.

A suit against Edison was brought by Lawrence Cantor, a small businessman and former owner of a Detroit drugstore. Cantor stated that his reason for challenging Edison on their lightbulb program was because it "offended my sense of independence and my right to do business."

Cantor claimed that Edison's program of providing free bulbs to its customers was not fair to the small businessman who was forced to compete with the giant utility that had established a virtual monopoly on the lightbulb business. He further claimed that Edison's program did not really provide the bulbs free, but rather added the cost of the bulbs to the bills of all its residential customers, whether they took advantage of the program or not.

Cantor also claimed that Edison did not break down the total costs of the lightbulb program on its accounting ledgers. Rather, they had charged the cost of transportation, storage and handling to the basic utility bill. Only the cost of the bulbs themselves were listed separately by Edison accountants, and this procedure made it difficult to determine the exact costs of the "free" bulb program.

Although the Cantor suit was dismissed by both the U.S. District Court, in 1973, and the Sixth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, Cantor and his contingent attorneys elected to take the case to the U.S. Supreme Court.

That body ruled in favor of Cantor, and ordered the case back to U.S. District Court for trial.

Rather than incur further legal costs, Edison entered into negotiations with Cantor and agreed to discontinue its lightbulb program.

We at Associated Newspapers have found this case to be of interest.

The principle involved in this case, 'a tied sale', is the requirement that one item—perhaps not desired—is provided free, if the consumer purchases another item which is desired. One example is Edison's free bulbs with the purchase of electric power. Another example, Eastman Kodak's free processing of film with the purchase of Kodak films.

But in the Edison case, we think a larger issue is really involved.

Since Edison is a regulated Michigan utility, its rate structure, and profit is subject to review and approval by the Michigan Public Service Commission. In the case of the lightbulbs, Edison apparently made the decision to give the bulbs away primarily for the purpose of increasing its expenses in order to return a higher profit. Along with higher expenses, came a higher rate of profit due to the PSC's approving Edison's rate structure on the basis of a profit being determined as a percentage of net sales.

While we cannot argue with the elimination of tied sales, we do feel that there was at least an alternative that should have been explored prior to Edison caving in to Cantor.

In the 1960s, in a court case involving a trading stamp company, the court ruled that the company must include as profit, those stamps that were not subsequently redeemed by its customers. Prior to that ruling, the company had not done so.

We feel that the situation involving Edison's free bulbs is an almost exact parallel.

We feel that it is unreasonable for consumers to be forced to pay for something that they do not receive, but it is also unfortunate that those same consumers who would prefer to get their bulbs on the pre-pay plan from Edison, should be denied that privilege.

We would suggest that the solution reached in the trading stamp case, be applied in Edison's case. Rather than discontinue the bulb program, Edison should simply be allowed to rebate to their customers the cost for the bulbs that its customers have not picked up.

An ominous scenario

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

The following is a scenario developed by Mr. George Douglas, National president of the Air Force Association, of Selfridge Air Base.

Stephen Kuchta of Belleville has passed it along for your consideration.

"The moment of truth finally has come. The hot-line from Moscow rings in the White House. Secretary General Brezhnev of the Communist Party tells the President of the United States that he has just seen the Ambassadors of France and England.

"He tells the President, bluntly but politely, what he has just told the Ambassadors — that an East and a West Germany make no sense — that there must be 'one' Germany as a partner in the Warsaw Pact... which means, of course, a Germany under Russian control.

"He announces that at exactly 2400 hours, three days hence, Soviet forces will occupy West Germany.

"Brezhnev says he made it clear to the French that Soviet forces will not go beyond the Rhine — knowing full well that sooner or later the Russian occupation of her neighbor will cause France — with its strong home-grown Communist Party — to join the Socialist camp without Russia having to fire a shot.

"To the English Ambassador, he has said that if Great Britain plays it cool, it won't get hurt — knowing that this once world power is now a military has-been.

"To the American President, Brezhnev now lays it on the line — this is purely an internal European matter, he maintains, and really, none of your business. Further, the Soviet occupation forces — if unopposed — will permit Americans in Germany — military and civilian — to evacuate safely and in an orderly fashion.

"If the United States opposes this occupation of West Germany, adds the Russian leader, it must accept the consequences — the loss of untold millions of American lives in a Soviet nuclear missile attack.

"Are you willing, he asks, to accept this alternative to limited internal action within Europe on our part? Brezhnev answers his own question with — 'I doubt it.'

"He made his response aware that West Germany is a bulwark of NATO — that its occupation by Russia means the end of NATO — that with Europe lost to the United States, Japan — with its inability to defend itself — would knuckle under — that the United States would be totally isolated.

"All this, of course, will mean economic disaster in the United States — from the loss of raw materials and export markets. The long-term viability of the home of the free will be doomed.

"Yet, the President is understandably reluctant to sacrifice the lives of millions of Americans in a lost cause.

"While the President is mulling over these grim thoughts, Brezhnev adds this final touch.

"If, he says, the United States is so rash and so foolish as to think of responding with a nuclear missile attack on Russia, please consider these facts:

"As of today, citizens of the Soviet Union are beginning to evacuate our cities for hardened underground shelters, where food and water and other necessities of life have long been stored. Unlike your people, our citizens believe that a nuclear attack is not only possible, but that the Soviet Union can survive it. There will be many casualties, of course, but we lost some twenty million comrades in World War Two — and we are convinced we can take your missiles with even fewer losses. Not only can we survive your attacks — we can rebuild our industry, revive our economy. We have machine tools secured in underground shelters. We have hardened our industry. Even if only one-quarter of it survives your attack — we have a starting point you do not have.

"The U.S. President knows all of this — too well — and Brezhnev's declaration does not come as a surprise. He has been afraid of it for a long time. His intelligence has convinced him that the Soviets have not only local military superiority in Europe — but global strategic superiority as well.

"The change has been long in the making. The turning point may have been in 1976.

"During that year the military buildup of Russia continued at an unprecedented rate, while the United States decided to cut back a little more — postpone certain weapon systems — reduce manpower — etc.

"Secretary General Brezhnev concludes his phone call with: 'Mr. President, you have 24 hours to begin withdrawing your troops from West Germany.'

"The Soviet Union has isolated America from the rest of the world — without a shot being fired in our direction."

Can't happen?

We all know that no rational human being would even consider unleashing a nuclear holocaust, but would rational people have developed the capability of destroying the earth?

Bald Eagle Speaks

Questions plague mankind

By BOB AMEEN

In all of life as we know it, there are vast multitudes of things that we do not understand, possibly because we do not have the intelligence, the specialized background necessary, or the desire to do so.

On the other hand, there are many, many things that we cannot understand, never will be capable of understanding, and are not meant to understand.

In this latter domain are such things as: Are we the only planet inhabited by life? Is there an outer limit to the universe? Will the universe, earth included, someday die? Will there always be wars? Will the God of the Christmas ever be proved to exist? Why are we born, only to die? Why was I born me, and you you?

Such questions have plagued and intrigued mankind for centuries. Most likely, they will continue to be a mystery till the end of Time, should that even be destined to occur.

Quite possibly, just as we do not know how long we will live, we are not meant to know the answers to such mind-boggling enigmas related to our brief stay on Earth.

Should we know the solutions to such riddles of mankind and its existence on Earth, the fun, the joy of anticipation, and the thrills connected to things mysterious, would vanish.

Should we be permitted to know such calamities as the impending sickness or death of ourselves or our loved ones, or the exact advent of nuclear war, our lives would become so depressing and sad that many of us would just as soon not want to open our eyes to another day.

Thus, in either case, knowing in advance the outcome of things pleasant or things tragic, would lose much of the magic in our lives that we enjoy today, that all those who passed on before us also were made happier for in their times.

All such conclusions are not meant to say that mankind will not progress, will not find the answers to some heretofore ponderable questions and riddles of the universe. Solutions and answers will be found to some — that is the nature of man, to probe and to seek. But, it is almost inevitable that he will never know the whys and wherefores of everything now unexplained.

For, if man were capable of reaching this point, he would understand the infinite, time immemorial, it has been acknowledged that mortal man, in all of his wisdom, will never comprehend the infinite for that is the sole domain of that power that created us and all of the elements of the universe.

Christianity, only one of the religions which exists in the world today, teaches that man is made in God's image. Quite possibly, that is the way it is all meant to be — that the creator, the maker, should never be approached in magnitude and power by those that that entity breathed life into.

It is only human for humans to wonder why they do not know when they will die, if their offspring will become famous, if they will get a better job, etc., and they should wonder, should continue to wonder for all of their lives.

But, in the end result, it is just as well that we will never know the answers to questions so close to all of us.

Is it not possible that the desire to know, to find out, to investigate, to reflect upon, provides that catalyst, that spark, that is needed to keep all of us alive to live another day and another day and another day?

The proof could be that mankind is still here today, and as it looks now, will be for a long time to come.

Health Beat

Service in the ER

By RUSS TUTTLE
Director, Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

He was a man whom I'd judge to be somewhere in his middle 40's. He'd been brought to the Annapolis Hospital emergency room (ER) as a suspected victim of a heart attack. He had arrested while on the treatment table, and the resuscitation team lead by Gust Petropoulos, MD, had just finished restoring his respiratory and cardiac functions.

He opened his eyes and said, "Nurse, I just died, didn't I."

According to Chris Henderson, LPN I, such startling events have happened before in an ER. "We have documented reports from patients who are convinced that during some procedure such as resuscitation they have expired and then have come back to life.

"They report that they actually feel some part of themselves leave their body as a detached entity where they watch the doctors and nurses work on the body which remains on the table.

"Indeed," she concluded, "these patients can even repeat what has been said during the procedure, despite the fact that they were totally comatose."

Obviously such dramatic events are rare in the ER. At Annapolis some 45,000 patients are seen each year. They range in severity from what the professionals call clinical cases, (colds, sore throats, rashes, fevers et al) to serious trauma such as heart attacks, poisoning, gun-shot wounds, and bodies broken up in falls or automobile accidents.

This busy service is staffed by a professional corporation (Dr. Petropoulos is the president of the corporation) and by nurses with special training in emergency medicine.

Lori Hill, RN., told me that she has spent most of her professional career in the ER and "It's a part of medicine where one does not have the time to get bored. We do have our down times, but when patients are brought in they seem to come in droves. Each patient presents a different challenge to our expertise. And understood in the proper context, the ER is an exciting place in which to work."

There are five treatment stations in the main room, four holding areas just outside that room, a room for pelvic examinations, a cast room, an examination room, an endoscopy room.

The ER is located on the main floor in the south portion of the hospital immediately adjacent to the intensive cardiac care unit. It is, in effect, a miniature hospital within a hospital.

Kathy Williams who is an LPN-I said, "About the only thing I really have trouble with, working in this service, is the fact that often we don't get to see our patients once we have rendered the primary care and the patient has been admitted to the hospital — We have, and I don't mean to sound pompous, actually saved more than one life in this room — The patient is then transferred to the unit or to one of the floors and we seldom see that person unless we can take some time from our lunch hour and make a quick visit."

As you talk with these people, it becomes clear that those who commit their talents to emergency medicine are a special breed.

Our conversation was taking place in the small coffee room just off the main treatment area. I could sense a feeling of camaraderie which existed between the medical doctors and the nurses. While there was no breach of professional conduct, you know that these people have immense respect and possibly even affection for each other.

The talk sometimes rambled. I heard about children at home, husbands, a new car, the coming Rose Bowl football game, and generally about those things you'd hear at any gathering of six or eight people. The point being that these professionals are not one-dimensional bores living only in a restricted, esoteric world of medicine.

As the talk continued, we were joined by an orderly who had been assigned ER duty for the day. This orderly, Angie Peltier by name, is one of the first females to achieve orderly status in the history of PCHA. She had just finished setting up a laceration tray for a physician, and prior to that she had been in the cast room assisting a physician as the physician casted a broken leg. There were still traces of cast material on her fingers, and she had a harried look about her. "It's been a busy morning," she said, "but when I'm assigned to the ER I'm happy because I leave with a tremendous sense of accomplishment. It's a fascinating service."

Patriots present rookie coach with victory

After a sluggish start in their nonleague basketball opener, Livonia Franklin bounced back and rallied to a 65-51 victory over Garden City East to start the Northwest Suburban Conference season on the right track.

The Patriots presented their rookie 'cage coach Jim McIntyre with his first victory after giving him nothing but heartburns in their season opener at Plymouth Salem. Salem's troops buried Franklin 81-35.

"We looked like a different ball cut out there Friday night," said McIntyre who took over from Bob Visser as head coach.

There were two good reasons for the Patriots' sudden transformation: they got John Zannis back into the lineup and also inserted Chris Baker, a transfer from Dearborn Heights Riverside, in as center.

Zannis didn't play against Salem because of an injured ankle and Baker became eligible to play Friday after sitting out the opener. "Zannis is the sparkplug of this team," McIntyre pointed back, "and he gives us the leadership we need, while Baker is an excellent man to have in the pivot.

East took the initiative and grabbed an 18-12 lead over the Patriots who had their problems working inside East's zone the first half. The Panthers managed to stay ahead at the half 27-23 before Gary Wilson brought the Livonians to life. Wilson drilled nine of his game-high 22 points in the third period to help the Patriots erase the deficit and take a 45-35 lead that they never relinquished. Gary DeYonker, who sank six of his 21 points, and Zannis got four of his 15 points during the second half surge.

Baker, a junior who stands 6-4, contributed 10 rebounds and four points in his first start in a Franklin cage uniform.

"He'll become more aggressive when he becomes acquainted with the team and our style," McIntyre assured. "He is one fine ball player."

The Patriots could use some overtime at the free throw line. They capitalized on 17 of 34 opportunities. East made 13 of 24.

East also had a pair of cagers in two figures. Jim Dziekan sacked 17 and Jim Taylor added 11.

Franklin will head for Redford Thurston Friday night in quest of its second conference victory. They had to contend with cross-town rival, Bentley, Tuesday night.

A day Hawley won't forget

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

Webster defines a coach as "someone who teaches by training intensively, by instruction or demonstration and practice."

Billy Hawley personifies those words. He, like the thousands of men and women in the United States, has devoted much of his life and time to teach young men how to be excellent athletes and outstanding citizens.

BILL HAWLEY

And, for the first time since 1962, Hawley will not be directly involved in coaching. Accepting an athletic directorship at Wayne Memorial last year, Hawley bowed out as the high school's varsity basketball coach. He also coached track and field on the high school and junior high level.

Friday night, before the season's basketball opener at Wayne High, a few of Hawley's former "stars" along with faculty and fans showed up to pay Bill a tribute and in a small way say, "thank you" for a job well done.

On hand to make a formal presentation of a plaque of appreciation was George Bell, principal at Wayne Memorial.

"They really caught me by surprise," Hawley later said. "I didn't know what they were up to — but it was nice of them. It's going to be very difficult to watch these games from the sidelines."

Hawley, a lifelong resident of Wayne, broke into the varsity coaching ranks in 1962 first as a track coach and later as a basketball coach. He lettered in both sports and golf as a prep at Wayne High.

He built Wayne's track team into a state power and finished ninth in Class B competition in the late sixties. In fact, Ernie Righetti, the current Wayne cross-country and track coach was a member of that team.

The 37-year-old Hawley picked up the cage pieces in 1968 and fitted them together to win a Mid-Wayne Conference championship. Hawley's cagers have always generated enthusiasm on the court — win or lose.

Among those on hand Friday night to pay tribute to their coach were former stars Glen Ambrose, Pat Sheridan, Al Slamer, Clark Johnson, Kim Herbert, Bob Morningstar, Jay Thompson and Don Johnson, to name just a few.

Another veteran coach's career came to an unexpected end last week.

Jim VanderHull, who coached Dearborn Fordson to a Class A state championship back in the fifties, resigned just before the Dearborn-Bellefonte High basketball game.

VanderHull moved over from Fordson to Dearborn High as a teacher-coach in 1966 and has coached the Patriots to a couple of district titles, but never reached the success he had with the Tractors.

Jim complained of chest pains after a game at Livonia Churchill a week ago, then earlier in the week, on the advice of his doctors, he quit.

VanderHull's successor is Gene Snell, who took over the assistant head coaching job a year ago. Snell's baptismal was a winning one as the Patriots managed to steal one away from Belleville.

"I have always had a great deal of respect for Coach VanderHull," said Belleville's Tom niemi. "His teams were always well-disciplined and he will be sorely missed."

Another unexpected change in the Suburban 8 Conference took place at Livonia Bentley where Larry Jackson, a coach of two years, left the Bulldogs in favor of Dearborn Heights Annapolis.

Jackson took over the reins held last year by former all-stater Michael Bird, who stepped down as head coach. Jackson also made his coaching debut at the Dearborn Heights-based high school a winning one, at the expense of Romulus.

DNR to hold safety clinic for hunters

There will be safety clinics — one for snowmobilers, the other for hunters — staged this month by the Departments of Natural Resources.

The snowmobile safety clinic will be held on Dec. 10 and 11 at the Romulus Recreation Department Center for persons 12 years old and up. The instructor, Bert Girardin, Chief Instructor for the DNR, will be on hand to answer all questions.

Further information may be obtained by contacting the parks and recreation department at 941-0666.

Registration will begin at 9:30 a.m., and there is a $2 fee. The DNR also will stage a hunter safety clinic from Dec. 17 and 18 at the Winchester Public Shooting Range, south Rockwood. All shotguns and ammunition will be furnished by the DNR.

There will be a "Learn to Shoot" session along with the hunter safety seminar and registration also will be at 9:30 a.m. Registration fee is $2. "There have been a lot of recent changes in the laws," Girardin stressed, "therefore we would like to have as many people at these clinics as possible."

"The DNR will also furnish the snowmobiles during these clinics," Girardin added.

only two field goals — one each by Progar and Hanton — during the entire second period and stayed in the game thanks to their free throws where they made nine of 13.

Outscoring Western 16-12 in the third period, the Chargers turned to a full-court press in the final eight minutes and cashed in on numerous turnovers which they used to score a couple of uncontested layups.

Hanton sparked the Chargers with 22 points and he was supported by Progar who collected 12 points.

After a nonleague contest Tuesday night at Garden City East, the Livonians move on to Northville for their second conference test.

From the State House

Consumer protection bills highlight session

There has been action in the Legislature on two consumer protection bills, one involving mail order houses and the other real estate solicitations. The mail order bill has cleared both the House and Senate and was recently signed into law. It requires outstate mail order firms to charge Michigan customers interest rates on installment purchases no higher than is permitted by Michigan law, regardless of the allowable interest rate in the company's home state.

It is becoming increasingly popular for Michigan consumers to make purchases through catalogs, which offer them unusual and unique items. Many of these mail order companies are located outside the state and there had been confusion as to the site of the contract. Is it where the seller is located or where the buyer is located?

This confusion presented a problem when the interest rate was figured on retail installment sales and resulted in Michigan consumers sometimes paying interest rates allowable in other states that were higher than the interest rate permitted in Michigan, which is 1.7 percent per month.

The situation was brought to a head when the Michigan Attorney General became involved in a suit with a large Illinois-based catalog company (Alden) in which the Attorney General claimed that Michigan residents who had retail sales agreements with the firm were paying more in installment purchase interest than they would be paying if dealing with a Michigan based-firm.

The bill just signed into law not only resolves that dispute but also eliminates the unfair practice of Michigan consumers paying higher interest rates than are allowable in Michigan.

Pennsylvania enacted similar legislation which has been upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The bill on real estate solicitation has been approved by the House and sent to the Senate, where it is now under consideration. Although real estate companies have become a vital part of property transactions, with their services valued by persons selling and buying property, there are some people who do not want to be contacted by real estate firms about selling or listing their homes.

The bill approved by the House would enable them to do something about it. It would require the Department of Licensing and Regulation to compile, maintain and distribute lists of owners of residential property who do not want real estate concerns to solicit the sale or listing of their homes by telephone, mail or in person. Anyone who wanted to be on the list would file a statement with the department. The placement on the list would be for a minimum of 30 days. The list, which would be made available to real estate companies, would be updated every six months, with the addition of new names and the elimination of persons wishing to be removed from the list.

Real estate firms would be in violation of the law if they contacted persons on the list, and would face a fine of as much as $500.

The bill would not only be a protection for homeowners, but would also help to prevent the practice of engaging in mass solicitations that contribute to "name selling" by creating the impression that many properties in the same residential neighborhood are being sold by the owners.

In addition to bills for consumer protection, there is often legislation in reaction to consumer demand. One such example is a bill recently approved by the House which would allow the Secretary of State to issue personalized license plates to the owners of vans. The personalized plates allow the buyer to have his or her name or other letters printed on a license plate, within certain restrictions. Such plates have been available for passenger cars for several years. However, because of the increasing popularity of vans, many persons have wanted the same privilege for van owners. The bill is in the Senate.

By WILLIAM KEITH
State Representative

Mrs. Cullin participated

To the Editor:

As Chairman of the Township Supervisors Association of Wayne County, I am writing this letter in reply to a letter sent to you by Mr. James Elias of Van Buren Township.

At the October 6, 1977 meeting of our Association, it was unanimously agreed that there was not enough time to effectively answer the questionnaire sent to the individual communities by John Barr, Chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners. Communication from this Association was sent to Chairman Barr indicating that fact.

The Supervisors Association has been and is now an effective voice for the 200,000 Township residents in the county representing their concerns and feelings at county, state and federal hearings for many years.

For approximately three years this Association has been actively involved to extend the services of the Sheriff's Road Patrol. It is through the Associations' unity and legal action that the Sheriff still patrols the roads of the Townships.

The nine Township Supervisors including Mrs. Cullen of Van Buren Township, have actively participated in exhaustive meetings with the Auditors and the Legislative and Judicial committee of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, attempting to get the true cost figures for the financial support (our fair share) which the county has never produced.

Therefore, it is our feeling that Chairman Barr's motives in sending out the questionnaire which many cities including Detroit did not reply to, was a feeble attempt by the Chairman of the Board of Commissioners to justify cuts that were already preplanned.

W. Curt Boller, Chairman
Township Supervisors Association

Response to Sumpter cajolery

To the Editor:

Whether in response to cajolery or sincere, earnest concern for some very serious community problems, approximately 200 Sumpter Township residents attended the November 14th public hearing regarding the township's water, sewer and drainage problems; particularly water problems.

Responding to nearly a month-long campaign of coaxing by township officials and their representatives, many of these citizens attended this hearing at great personal sacrifice; taking time off from work, changing or cancelling important appointments, etc. Some business and craftsmen even closed their shops or left them in the hands of underlings all because they felt a real sense of commitment to what is good for Sumpter Township.

One would think that after expounding with such fervor to township residents on the urgency and importance of this meeting, and of the absolute necessity of everyone's presence, the least the township officials could do was to be present themselves.

Of course, many of the township officials were present and they are to be commended for their contributions on behalf of the township. Nora Folks, Jim Reeves, Berna Chanault and Ron Roman all represented the township well. However, the painful irony, which is the point of this letter, is the absence from the hearing of the township supervisor, Robert Demski and the water superintendent, C. H. Hall.

It is incredible that the two township officials whose presence at this critical public hearing was so vital, were, for some reason (not yet publically explained), absent from the meeting. This is an inexcusable, shameful affront to the scores of senior citizens and many loyal citizens, who paid such an enormous price, in terms of personal sacrifice, to attend the public hearing and contribute in whatever way they could.

Perhaps Mr. Demski and Mr. Hall have legitimate excuses for their dereliction on November 14th. Indeed, if their reasons are valid, they certainly owe it to the people of Sumpter Township to make them known. Nobody at the hearing did.

John Morgan
Sumpter Township

"Ode to a school"

To the Editor:

Sumpter School, Sumpter School where have you gone?
What will happen to your trim neat lawn?

They told me a Yes would save you for awhile;
But, now my child rides the extra mile;

They took you away because we didn't say Yes;
But, it wouldn't have mattered because the finances are a mess;

The drop in attendance was not in your control;
But, when it comes to state aid, a students like gold;

Sumpter School is closed, her halls empty and bare;
But not because I didn't care;

Now you're back to balance your books;
And Sumpter School has terrific looks;

Is she worth $180,000? You said she was old;
Or do you want to get rid of a Sumpter Township hold?

Precinct 4 has defeated you for years;
And, if it continues I won't shed any tears;

Don't think for a minute if you sell Sumpter School its the end of a headache and a lot of woe;
You'll still need the extra dough;

In closing may I say, if Sumpter School has ceased to be;
Let it be known what a difference to me.
Sharon Russell

Folmar praised

To the Editor:

Would you be kind enough to publish in your letter columns an unsolicited letter of appreciation with respect to Mr. Leonard Folmar, City Clerk of Romulus?

My gratitude stems from Mr. Folmar's kind and effective response to a request I made of him for information on how to get copies of documents at the Wayne County and City Buildings in down-town Detroit. My daughter who lives in Delaware desperately needed certain copies of court files to qualify for veteran's widow's benefits following the tragic accident resulting in her husband's death.

When I called Mr. Folmar at his office at City Hall the most I expected was some guidance, on where to go and whom to see, that might expedite my task. My daughter was not one of his constituents and most public officials and bureaucrats are usually very clever in passing the buck by referring one to someone else. Not Mr. Folmar. He asked me a few questions pertinent to the matter, and the information I had was so imprecise it left a two year gap on the date of the record in question.

Nevertheless in one hour from the time I called, Mr. Folmar called me back with all the information I asked for and instructions on which floor, which room and official to get copies of the documents I sought.

Unlike some politicians who will claim credit for all the good things in government and point an accusing finger of blame at someone else for the bad things, Mr. Folmar is extremely modest. In my opinion Mr. Folmar is a very scientific, competent and dedicated public servant.

Restaurant Review

Landmark of Van Buren

By JOE BENYO

Tucked away in the southeast corner of a shopping complex of some 26 stores and shops, the Landmark Restaurant in Van Buren Township is thriving.

Located in the Lakewood Shopping Center at I-94 and Rawsonville Road, the restaurant is franchised to the BF & B Corp. Four young men with the names of Bob Berry, Dennis Fawaz, Frank Turbiak and Rich Buttigieg, have got themselves an unbelievable business that, although hard to find the first time, after dining there once, you'll never forget.

First impressions begin the best, you're greeted by a hostess and guided into a spacious area with booths and tables, elegantly carpeted, a warm friendly atmosphere.

The noise level is quite, yet the service, revolving from a work center in the middle of the floor, moves people in and out of the building with ample time to enjoy a dinner slowly, with no waiting at all. Almost hard to believe, yet true.

My waitress, Kathy Odom of Dearborn Heights, has been employed by the restaurant on and off for more than a year and feels that the drive is not bad, especially when "all the people, including the bosses, are so nice."

Kathy's attitude started the pleasant evening on a even better note for any diner at the landmark.

The dinner: Vegetable soup that was thick, creamy and delicious...salad with homemade blue cheese dressing that was very good and the lettuce was crisp and complimented with carrot sticks...

Land and Sea, that's what they call it...rib eye steak, prepared medium well (my choice)...I didn't notice any artificial tenderizer, but rather a very choice tender piece of beef. That was the land part...The sea part I must admit I was skeptical of and approached the three breaded jumbo shrimp cautiously...But they were great, tender and juicy and as fine as any top line restaurant would serve...The sauce was tangy, yet not overdone with spices and very delicious.

The baked potato with sour cream was better than most, not mushy, but moist and baked perfectly...The meal was garnished with several french fried onion rings that were very good and not greasy...The candied apple rings were possibly decorative, but I tried them and was delighted.

The strawberry pie is homemade, and I was able to salvage a taste only, because they were sold out...one of their better desserts.

Rich Buttigieg, my host on and off during the dinner, brought cheese blintzes with sour cream and strawberries, and I was astounded at the excellent flaky crust, as well as the filling...super.

Menu items included appetizers, ranging from tomato juice for 35 cents to french fried mushrooms at 95 cents, salads — molded Jell-O with vegetables at 55 cents to a chef salad deluxe at $2.50 — platters like a hamburger deluxe at $1.95 to a stacked ham at $2.50, sandwiches like, hot dogs, egg salad and grilled cheese at 90 cents to a reuben or rib eye at $2.65. There are entrees of veal cutlet or fried clams at $2.95 through chicken, seafood and beef liver to a choice New York strip steak at $4.95, will all the trimmings. The specials are English-style fish 'n chips at $2.75 and hot roast beef at $2.45.

Wednesday nights it's all the spaghetti you can eat for $2.45, and every Sunday from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. there's a smorgasbord of baked ham, meat balls, roast beef, spaghetti, corn beef, baked chicken, vegetables, desserts, Jell-O and pies at $3.75 for adults and $1.99 for children.

Breakfast entrees range from continental style to two eggs, rib eye steak, hash browns and toast at $3.25, plus a lineup of omelettes, cereal and pancakes.

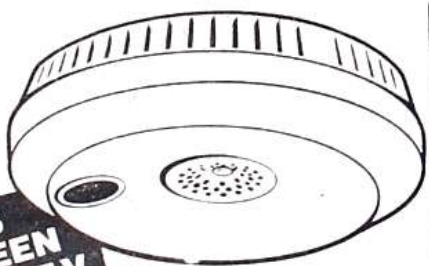

Added to the menu shortly will be pastrami on rye, and by April, a new innovation for this type of operation...delivery service to Belleville, Sumpter, Ypsilanti and Romulus...Sounds good.

Summing it up ... Service, five stars ...Food quality, five stars...Attitude of employees, five plus stars...Absolutely unbelievable for this underrated type of dining...Taking any dish in this place and serving in a high class type restaurant, paying five times the price at that, you couldn't tell the difference...Service and quality supreme ... and superb...My advice, Try it. You'll like it and be back for more.

Make it a Safe and Happy Christmas!

Motorists face 'hardship' in finding auto insurance

Increasing numbers of people in all parts of Michigan are suffering real hardship because they can't get adequate insurance coverage for their cars, homes and property at a fair price, the state insurance commissioner said.

Thomas C. Jones told the Economic Club of Detroit Junior Executives that the existing system is arbitrarily forcing people to go uninsured or purchase less coverage at a higher cost.

"Almost anywhere I turn the availability of insurance is a serious problem," Jones said, "and the decrease in availability hits consumers arbitrarily. People are cancelled or denied coverages by an apparently whimsical system which is unknown to them and unpredictable."

Jones said his proposed essential insurance program, now under consideration by the Michigan House of Representatives as HB

5196, can be a "fundamental, long-lasting answer to the needs of all of Michigan's citizens and, at the same time, be attentive to the economic realities of the insurance marketplace."

The proposal has been endorsed by most consumer groups and all the major insurance agents associations.

Nevertheless, the response by most insurance companies has been "for the most part, vigorous and unconstructive opposition," the insurance commissioner said. "In the eight months since the proposal was made, the insurance companies have not yet openly proposed a comprehensive alternative to deal with the serious problems facing the market for automobile and homeowners insurance."

"Even more disappointing, I have yet to see a meaningful and intelligent criticism of our proposal." "If the insurance companies have a better way to deal with the problems facing the insurance market, then it is the industry's responsibility to make their proposals and perform a constructive and open role in the legislative process."

Any insurance system should be able to fulfill four basic public objectives — guarantee essential insurance to all risks, guarantee rates which are competitive and fair, guarantee freedom of choice between companies, and assure effective and efficient regulation. But the present system does not and cannot, he said.

The first two parts of the Essential Insurance Reform Act work to guarantee insurance availability and the last three assure rates that are competitive and fair, Jones said. They are:

- Mandatory offer of essential insurance by private companies;
- Creation of a Michigan Reinsurance Association to assume the risk of policies which companies do not want to keep;
- Competitive rating, in which the marketplace rather than the Insurance Bureau will set rates for most lines of insurance;

- Regulation of classes and territories, so that rates for individuals will differ only according to criteria that actually affect losses of individuals; and
- Mandatory merit rating, so that high risks will pay more for their insurance.

"If the program we have recommended to the Governor and the legislature is enacted, Michigan consumers will notice some important differences when buying their insurance," Jones said. "Also, no one could ever be cancelled or nonrenewed unless it is for such reasons as nonpayment of premiums. Every policyholder of a company will be treated equally."

What are man's limitations?

"For we are but of yesterday, and know nothing, because our days upon the earth are a shadow." Job 8:9

If we stop for a moment and reflect upon the accomplishments of man, it would seem as if the holy writer, Job, spoke contradictorily to what God intended for man.

Is it possible, that man in the short span of 80 years has created and refined such inventions as the automobile, airplane and telephone, and even greater progress in the areas of health and education.

It is beyond comprehension to suddenly realize that "man walking on the moon" is old history.

In the field of medicine we are "transplanting" human organs with every increasing success and finding cures for otherwise incurable maladies.

We face a future of computers and other electronic genius with a seemingly limitless future for mankind. It is as if our wildest dreams and fantasies are becoming modern day reality. Perhaps God has allowed man to "dream the impossible dream" and yet it not be impossible because of God's blessing of knowledge upon this and other nations.

Yet MAN with all his knowledge faces two distinct limitations which he will never be able to overcome. He has not the ability to give life or the ability to determine the process or time of death.

We have created many things yet we cannot create life and give it birth either human or otherwise.

God refers to man's knowledge as shallow.

"Who hath put wisdom in the inward parts? Or who hath given understanding to heart?" Job 38:36

God challenges Job to give an answer, if he can, to where his "wisdom" and "understanding" came from. Job had questioned God, and God in return asked Job to tell him, "Where wast thou when I laid the foundations of the earth?", if he has understanding.

Man has understood and gained knowledge far beyond comprehension, yet, if God did not supply we would be nothing. Our knowledge is so small in comparison to the knowledge of the Creator of the Universe. Of course, we speculate and expound our theories, from the "Big Bang" to centrifugal evolution. But they are just that, theories. But our Heavenly Father has proven His power and knowledge through the fulfillment of His word.

God's word is that our time is short.

How ironic that we constantly struggle to sustain life and to make it better and longer. Yet God's word says: "For all our days are passed away in thy wrath: we spend our years as a tale that is told." Psalms 90:9 Also, one New Testament writer refers to our life as a "vapor" that appeareth for a moment and then vanisheth away.

As you reminisce about bygone days, have you ever marvelled at how swiftly time passes? Children who yesterday were babes are now grown and gone.

God's word reveals we cannot know what tomorrow brings.

We give political forecasts, weather forecasts, and predictions of the outcome of various events, yet none of us really know what will happen tomorrow. The scripture states: "Whereas ye know not what shall be on the morrow." James 4:14a.

It often is amusing to listen to weather predictions, which never happen and political predictions which never come true.

THE REV. HAROLD W. PARKER
Pastor
Church of God of Prophecy
Romulus

Yes, we have accomplished many things, yet man cannot know what tomorrow will bring forth. Seeing that man has these limitations, shallow knowledge, short life, and the uncertainty of the future, he needs God in the fullness of salvation and the reality of new life.

The "limitations of man" are made by the hand of God, but Jesus has made it possible to have no fear of these things. Christ died for our sins and gave us the boundless knowledge and time of His heavenly Father and prepared our future for "eternity" through His precious blood.

In conclusion, let us refer to the Psalmist David: "I love the Lord, because he hath heard my voice and my supplications. Because he hath inclined his ear unto me, therefore I will call upon his as long as I live. The Lord preserveth the simple: I was brought low, and he helped me. For thou hast delivered my soul from death, mine eyes from tears, and my feet from falling. I will walk before the Lord in the land of the living." Psalms 116:1, 2, 6, 8 & 9.

Balloonists soar

Balloon ascensions are nothing new to our time, but when one of the sport's famous aeronauts is in town...now that's news. And it was when it occurred more than 100 years ago. So says Barbara Wood of the Historical Society of Michigan.

By BARBARA WOOD

"The celebrated aeronaut John Wise arrived in Detroit for a scheduled balloon ascension." Sounds like something you might read in today's paper and a fun thing to watch on a Saturday afternoon.

In fact, it was a popular event 125 years ago, too, when this particular ascension took place. The story of ballooning in Michigan is detailed in the current issue of Chronicle, the quarterly magazine of the Historical Society of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

Balloonists have floated over Michigan for more than 100 years, according to author John Cumming, director of the Clarke Historical Library at Central Michigan University, in Mt. Pleasant.

By the time John Wise appeared in Detroit in 1852, he was an eminent balloonist, with 17 years experience, and the most famous U. S. aeronaut. His flight that sunny Saturday afternoon took him from Detroit, over Pontiac, to a landing in section 33 of Highland Township.

Far from being an ordinary carnival performer, Wise was a scientist of his time. His experiments with hydrogen gas and other aspects of aeronautics were pioneering developments which were preludes to the conquest of space.

Michigan's leading expert on ballooning (33 ascensions) in the 1850s was Professor Ira Thurston, with headquarters in Adrian. He constructed his own balloon and in collaboration with his pilot, W. D. Bannister, performed aerial feats that made headlines throughout the country.

On one flight in June 1855, Bannister went from Adrian over Jewish families mark 'Festival of Lights'

On the evening of Dec. 5, Jewish families the world over gathered together to commemorate one of the most significant events in Jewish history—an event marked by a miracle.

The celebration of Hanukkah, or the "Festival of Lights", marks the recapture, by Judas Maccabaeus and a small band of Israelites in 165 B.C., of the temple in Jerusalem, which had been profaned by the pagan Syrian king, Antiochus IV. After Maccabaeus had seized the temple from the Syrian army, it was purified and dedicated to God with festivities that lasted eight days. Despite the fact that only one cruet of oil, enough for one day, was available for the dedication ritual, the one cruet lasted, miraculously, for the entire eight days.

The celebration of Hanukkah today is centered upon the lighting of an eight-branched candelabrum called the Menorah. One candle is lighted on each of eight nights.

In the spirit of ecumenism, Rabbi Louis I. Newman of New York City has observed: "The Maccabean spirit of the Hanukkah festival belongs not only to Jewry and Israel, but to all freedom-loving peoples. The preservation of the Jewish faith by the Maccabees made possible the birth of two daughter religions, Christianity and Islam. The world always will gratefully remember the contributions of Hanukkah."

Some of the typical foods for the eight joyous days of feasting are latkes, or potato pancakes, kugel, or a potato pie, and the loaf of bread called Cholla.

Since Hanukkah is a time to receive guests, as well as a family reunion, Jewish homes are decorated with candles and flowers to enhance the festive atmosphere of the occasion.

Blue and white flowers, combined into beautiful arrangements by a local florist—or created by the hostess herself from materials obtained from the florist—enjoy a special tradition as a centerpiece for the Hanukkah table.

Among the varieties of flowers available at this time of year are carnations, white or tinted blue, white roses, lavender snapdragons, and lavender-blue asters. And mixed bouquets of white and blue daisies, placed on either side of the Menorah, make for a simple but attractive backdrop for the edible "goodies".

We perform at least 85 services for a funeral!

We handle a myriad of details for each funeral to meet the special wishes and needs of the family. As funeral directors, we often help out for several months after the funeral to make sure all details are completed.

It is important for funeral directors to consult at length with the family on literally dozens of details. Here are just a few of them:

FUNERAL: setting its time and who is to officiate; choice of casket and clothing, music, Scriptures, etc. CEMETERY: purchase of lot or opening of family plot; getting permits.

NOTICES: arranging death certificates, obituaries, notifying fraternal (or other) groups, distant relatives. FUNERAL DAY: organizing service details; helping conduct service; providing family cars and organizing procession.

CLAIMS: helping family file for Social Security, military, union or insurance benefits.

Any of the 85 service details can cause grief when not handled right. We have to give EVERY funeral 110 percent of our time and attention to perform a service which comforts and fulfills the family's needs.

Due to end Dec. 1

State funds will 'save' 177 county jobs

Anticipating state funds, the Wayne County Board of Commissioners has saved 71 regular jobs and 106 trainee positions which were due to be dropped when an austerity budget takes effect on Dec. 1.

The board allocated $38,000 to retain 29 attorneys whose jobs in the Prosecutor's Office were to be terminated due to the budget crunch. The actions were taken at a Nov. 17 meeting.

Twenty clerical positions were restored to the budget at Wayne County General Hospital in a move that also saved 106 federally-funded trainee positions.

The 20 stenographer and typist jobs were retained for up to three months while their occupants are placed in other departments as vacancies occur.

This avoids the layoff of 106 steno and typist trainees. A union agreement requires that all the trainees in a given job classification be dropped if any regular employee in that classification is laid off.

The commissioners also restored to the budget the Recorder's Court Pre-trial Diversion Program whose entire staff of 18 was to be dropped Dec. 1. The board shifted $394,800 from the court's indigent legal fee and juror-witness fee accounts to fund the continuation.

The court program was restored after the board was advised that it saves money by disposing of appropriate cases without trials. The board requested monthly reports on the cost-effectiveness of the program.

Four Sheriff's deputies' jobs were extended until Feb. 4 when funding for a number of Sheriff's units will expire. Staffing levels for the units will be reviewed following an arbitration ruling, expected in January.

The board restored all the assistant prosecutor jobs that were to be dropped after commissioners Rose Mary C. Robinson and Samuel A. Turner, both Detroit Democrats, reported that state financial help is expected.

Robinson, who chairs the board's Public Safety and Judiciary Committee, said state funding is called for in a bill introduced by State Rep. Richard A. Young of Dearborn Heights.

Turner, Ways and Means Committee chairman, said the movement toward state aid is a "recognition that we are doing things the state should be paying for" in the Prosecutor's Office.

When the austerity budget was adopted, Board Chairman John Barr said an all-out push for greater state recognition of the costs imposed on Wayne County would be made in an effort to minimize cutbacks.

Warranties need not be 'mysterious documents'

By LINDA JOY
Executive Director
Michigan Consumers Council

Many consumers see warranties as mysterious documents, written in language only an attorney could understand, but this attitude should change with the federal warranty law. Warranties must now be easy to understand and readily available for inspection so consumers can know exactly what is covered by the warranty before buying the product.

While the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act doesn't require warranties, products which do have written warranties must follow its provisions, if they cost more than $15. Under the act, there are two types of warranties — full and limited. A full warranty guarantees a defective product will be fixed or replaced without charge or unnecessary delays regardless of who owns the product. Under a full warranty, a product also must be replaced or a refund given, if it cannot be repaired after a reasonable number of attempts. The refund, however, may be decided on the basis of how long ago the product was bought.

On the other hand, a limited warranty may only cover the original buyer of the product and could pay for parts but not labor. It could also require the consumer to pay shipping and handling charges.

Full warranties obviously are preferred by consumers, but check carefully what parts of a product are actually fully covered. For example, a television may have a full warranty only on the picture tube while the rest of the parts may be covered by a limited warranty.

Since consumers who buy products with full warranties do not have to return warranty cards to the manufacturer to make the warranty effective, it is important to keep the sales slip or the receipt attached to the warranty. The slip shows when the product was bought and can be used to prove a product still is under warranty.

In addition, state law gives consumers some implied warranties on products. Consumers have the right to expect a product is fit for its ordinary use. For example, a watch should keep time. Consumers also are protected if they follow a seller's advice that a product can be used for a specific purpose. For example, if a salesperson says a certain sleeping bag will be comfortable in zero-degree weather, it should be warm in cold temperatures.

For more information on product warranties, contact the Michigan Consumers Council at 414 Hollister Building, Lansing 48933, or call (517) 373-0947.

Walk views birds

A special program, entitled "Winter Birds and Bird Feeders", will be presented at the nature center of Kensington Metropark at 9 a.m. Dec. 18.

Many species of birds remain in the Detroit area during the winter months. Often, the best place to look for winter birds is by a feeding station. Join naturalist Bob Hotelling on the bird walk. Bird feeders and food will be discussed.

Visitors should dress warmly for the 1½-hour program, and binoculars are essential. Meet at the park's nature center.

Advanced registration is required.

For information or registration, contact the nature center at 685-1561 (Milford).

Trees discussed Dec. 11

"Trees in Winter" is the subject of a special program to be conducted at the Nature Center of Kensington Metropark near Milford on Dec. 11 at 9 a.m.

How do trees survive the cold of winter? How can trees be identified in winter? These and other questions concerning trees will be considered by naturalist Dave Moilanen during a two-hour walk along Deer Run Trail.

This free program is for families and individuals only, and advance registration is required.

For information or registration contact the Nature Center of Kensington Metropark at 685-1561 (Milford).

SEMCOG approves 1st chapters

Clean water goals nearer to reality

The Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) brought the 7-county area one step closer to meeting federal clean water goals Oct. 20 when it approved the creation of a 27-member board to monitor wastewater treatment and pollution control.

By approving Chapters I and II of the clean water plan for southeast Michigan, the Council set the stage for "improved management of this area's water pollution programs".

Developed under provisions of the Clean Water Act, the recently approved portion of the plan outlines a management structure composed of local, county, regional and state agencies that will share responsibilities for water quality improvement in southeast Michigan.

With that work completed, the council now moves ahead with completion of the technical portion of the plan, which deals with residuals disposal, wastewater treatment facilities and pollution from stormwater runoff.

While recommendations in the management portion of the plan are expected to bring about improved water quality in southeast Michigan, there should be little change in the day-to-day activities of the over 300 agencies already involved in pollution control.

Under the plan, these agencies would continue to operate in much the same manner as they do now, however, their effectiveness in carrying out their water pollution control responsibilities would be monitored by the newly created Area-wide Water Quality Board.

"We have a pretty good system of water pollution control in the region right now," said SEMCOG Chairperson David H. Shepherd, mayor of Oak Park. "But, if we're going to meet the goal of swimmable and fishable waters called for in the law, we're going to have to do an even better job. And that's where the Area-wide Water Quality Board comes in."

The Area-wide Water Quality Board will have responsibility for seeing that appropriate steps are taken to control existing pollution problems and prevent potential problems from developing, he said.

The board will help the agencies involved in pollution control coordinate their programs and help resolve any conflicts that may arise over water quality issues in the 7-county area.

"Essentially, the board would be the management arm responsible for seeing that the overall water quality plan for Southeast Michigan is implemented," Shepherd added.

Although the board will watch over water quality practices in the region, it will not have enforcement powers.

"I want to point out, though, that the board is structured to identify problems and help the parties involved find solutions to those problems before they get out of hand. Because the board is composed of people from this area, it will be able to address local concerns from a regional perspective and act as an advocate for local concerns when dealing with state and federal agencies," Shepherd said.

In addition to calling for the creation of the Area-wide Water Quality Board and calling on existing water pollution control agencies to continue their work, Chapters I and II of the plan make SEMCOG responsible for ongoing area-wide water quality planning. Ongoing planning is required by the Clean Water Act which says the plan must be reviewed every year and updated, if necessary.

Following adoption by SEMCOG, Chapters I and II of the plan are being sent to all local units of government in the 7-county area for review. These communities will have 30 days to prepare written comments on this material and return those comments to the council.

Work has been proceeding on this portion of the plan since the beginning of the program in January 1976.

"Once the plan is approved, it will be united with water quality plans from the 13 other planning regions in the state to form a single statewide plan, which an agency such as the Michigan Department of Natural Resources will be responsible for enforcing."

Safety commission has tips on Yule gifts

Safety for the holidays is a timely message as the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) launches its 1977 Holiday Safety Program.

Between Nov. 1, 1976, and Jan. 31, 1977, 2,200 injuries treated in hospital emergency rooms were the result of accidents with holiday decorations — trees, lights and ornaments. More than half of these injuries occurred to children under 15 years of age. Children also are the most frequent victims in accidents involving toys. Therefore, CPSC recommends the following safety advice in the selection, use and maintenance of holiday decorations and toys.

If you are planning to buy a natural tree, the most important safety factor is its freshness. The higher the moisture content of the tree, the less likely it is to dry out and become a serious fire hazard.

Fill the holder with water until the cut line is covered and keep the water at this level while the tree is in use.

Set your tree up a good distance from any heat source. Dispose of the tree when the needles begin to fall off in large quantities. This is a sign that it is becoming dangerously dry.

Metal trees present no fire hazard in themselves. However, they can be the source of a serious shock hazard if electric lights are attached to the tree.

Sharp metal edges may cut the cord insulation; the metal needles might touch an electrically charged component. Either way, the whole tree will become electrically charged, and anyone touching the tree and a grounded object at the same time could receive a severe shock.

The only way to illuminate a metal tree safely is to use colored floodlights placed in different areas of the room. Since the floodlights can become quite hot, they should be positioned where children can't come in contact with them. If you purchase a plastic tree, it should be made of fire-resistant material. This does not mean that the tree will not burn, but only that it will not catch fire easily. As with natural trees, keep away from heat sources.

Check your tree lights and outdoor lights each year before you use them. Look for frayed wires, loose connections, broken or cracked sockets and spots where bare wire is exposed. Any set that is damaged, should be thrown out or repaired. Careful handling of these products during unpacking, decorating and repacking will lessen the chance of hazardous damage.

All lights should be fastened securely to the tree. No light bulbs should come into direct contact with the needles or branches. Curtains and other flammable materials should be kept away from bulbs.

Don't overload extension cords. Don't put more than three sets of lights on any extension cord. Keep the connections joints away from the water supply of a live tree.

Any outdoor lights should be weatherproof and clearly identified as designed for outdoor use. Don't try to use indoor lights for outdoor lighting. Remove outdoor lighting as soon as the season is over; even these lights are not designed to withstand prolonged exposure to the elements.

When you leave the house or retire for the evening, be sure that all lights are turned off by unplugging them from the wall outlet. Always disconnect any electrical appliance by grasping the plug, not by pulling on the cord.

Finally, though it may provide a sense of nostalgia, never use wax candles on or near a tree. This is a very serious fire hazard. Any decorative candles should always be kept well away from children and any flammable material.

Avoid placing breakable ornaments or ornaments with small detachable parts on lower branches where small children or pets can reach them and knock them off.

Trimings used on trees or around the home should be non-combustible or flame-resistant. An often recognized hazard exists in the combined use of spun glass "angel hair" and spray-on artificial snow, which present little fire hazard, if used separately. When the snow is sprayed on angel hair, the dried combination can burn rapidly, if accidentally ignited.

Some traditional holiday decorations may be harmful if eaten and this poses a hazard for young children. Mistletoe and holly berries may be poisonous, if more than a few are swallowed, and these plants should be kept out of the reach of children.

Fire salts, which produce a multi-colored effect when thrown on a wood fire, contain heavy metals. Eating them can cause gastrointestinal problems and vomiting.

If your child consumes any of these possibly hazardous substances, call your physician or Poison Control Center immediately.

Fireplaces are particularly popular during the holidays. Before starting a fire, remove all decorations from the area and be sure the flue is open.

Keep a screen in front of the fireplace any time a fire is burning.

Never use the fireplace as an incinerator. Do not burn wrappings or evergreen boughs there. These can burn suddenly and rapidly, throwing off sparks and burning debris. Dispose of wrapping paper immediately.

Buy toys that suit the skills and abilities of the child. Avoid toys that are too complex for young children.

Look for labels that give age recommendations or safety information, such as "Not Recommended for Children Under Three" or "Non-Toxic" on toys likely to end up in little mouths.

Watch out for toys that have sharp edges, small parts, or sharp points.

Dashing through the snow

Cross country skiing catches on in area

"Dashing through the snow" will definitely be back in style this winter, but most of it will take place on cross country skis instead of the traditional "one horse open sleigh".

Why is cross country skiing becoming such a popular recreational sport?

"Mostly because it's so much fun," says Ray Meyer, director of the SkiVenture Cross Country Ski Rental program at Maybury State Park in Northville. "It's a sport that almost everyone, from young children up to senior citizens, can enjoy the first time out." Some of the other reasons cited by Meyer which are drawing people into the sport are exercise, improved health, family outings and reasonable costs.

People who are thinking of trying cross country skiing for the first time this year will have several choices to make, such as, whether to rent equipment or purchase their own, what type of equipment to look for, what type of clothing is needed, and where to get instructions. Local residents are fortunate to have a wide variety of resources to help them with these decisions.

Meyer offers these reasons for renting skis before investing in a full set of equipment.

"The average rental cost per person is less than $5. It makes sense to invest a few dollars in rental to see if you enjoy cross country skiing before you invest a lot of money in equipment that you might not use.

"It also makes sense to rent equipment, if you're only going to go skiing a few times during the season, since the cost will be only about one quarter of the cost of purchasing equipment.

"The third practical reason for renting skis is to try a few different kinds in order to help you decide exactly what type of equipment you want to purchase," Meyer explained. "Once you've tried it enough times to be certain that you will remain active in cross country skiing, and you know what kind of equipment you want, then it's time to buy your own."

Those planning to purchase a full set of cross country equipment should expect to spend from $80 to $150 for skis, boots, poles, and bindings combined. Most stores offer "package sets," which provide some savings over individually purchased items. Promotional packages always are the least expensive, but usually contain equipment of lesser quality, such as vinyl boots. Leather boots generally are considered best because they will breathe and allow the feet to remain warm. Top grade wooden or foam core fiberglass skis may cost up to $90 alone, but will yield significantly better performance and durability than the less expensive packaged skis.

Skis may be divided into two major categories, those that require waxing and those that have a built in tread pattern on the sole of the ski and therefore do not need to be waxed. Wable skis allow the skier to adjust for different snow conditions and temperatures by changing waxes and consequently allow for maximum performance in any situation.

No-wax skis offer greater convenience, especially for families with young children, but will lose some performance in fresh dry snow and under icy condition. There is little difference in overall costs between the two, so it's mainly a choice between performance and convenience.

Regardless of whether your skis are rented or purchased, your comfort, and enjoyment, will depend upon making the correct choice in your clothing. Most beginners tend to "overdress", according to Meyer's experience at SkiVenture.

The cross country skier is in a state of constant motion, similar to walking," he explained, "so the body is always producing heat at a relatively steady pace. Usually, a wool sweater and wind-breaker along with a hat and mittens will be enough to keep the skier comfortable even in very cold weather.

"Wool socks are definitely required, but don't put on too many extra socks or the circulation in your feet will be impaired and they will become cold very quickly!"

Instructions will be available from several sources this season. Both Maybury State Park in Northville and Leslie Golf course in Ann Arbor, near U.S. 23 and Plymouth Road, will offer group lessons in addition to ski rentals for under $5. Several local parks and recreation departments, including Wayne, Plymouth, and others will host one-night clinics and classes sponsored by Michigan Wilderness Consultants Inc., for a fee of $5, including ski rental. Exact times and locations may be obtained from the recreation departments or by calling Michigan Wilderness Consultants Inc. at 326-3188.

Most stores offer free indoor clinics on waxing techniques, clothing selection and equipment selection, and several of the local skiing clubs, including American Youth Hostels, sponsor lessons.

Obviously, the opportunities to enjoy cross country skiing are plentiful. In fact, it might be the best solution to combating the cold weather that you've ever tried!

sharing is caring

Children love to get presents at Christmas. But, it's never too early to learn the joy of giving.

A contribution dropped in the Christmas kettle, or mailed to Salvation Army headquarters, is like a pebble dropped in a pond. It makes waves - good waves.

A family with many problems will be helped to have a happy Christmas. And, the Salvation Army will continue to help that family until it is able to stand alone.

A man or woman who kills the pain of living by steady drinking may come to the Salvation Army at Christmastime to share the holiday with others who are alone. The Army will work with that person, support his efforts to begin again, for weeks or months, or as long as seems necessary. The Christmas spirit is not for one day of the year. It means loving and helping all year round.

A youngster may receive Christmas presents, because the Salvation Army reached out to him at Christmas. But it doesn't let go of that child when the holiday season is over. He can come to the Salvation Army for after-school recreation, for summer camp away from home, or day camp nearby. The Salvation Army will continue to unfold him with the Christmas spirit of caring all year round.

Your Christmas contribution to the Salvation Army makes waves - good waves - all year long.

Santa's helpers

The Belleville Kiwanis Club and Douglas Carpeting are making sure Santa has a cozy spot all his own in Belleville this year. Don Mason of Douglas Carpeting gave permission for the Kiwanians to make ready the small house adjacent to his store. On Nov. 19 Kiwanians Dave Larabell, Jim Fitch, Ron Sierota, Bert Smith and Bill Chizmar spent the morning moving materials to prepare the dwelling for Santa's arrival. Santa's workshop, sponsored by the Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce, is funded by contributions from local organizations and merchants. Don Mason and Bill Chizmar, Kiwanis president, shake hands while Ron Sierota (left) and Dave Larabell (right) look on. The workshop will be open to young visitors following the Christmas Parade on Dec. 17 and will remain open until the afternoon of Christmas Eve.

Junior Study Club meeting features Girlstown director

The November meeting of the Belleville Junior Study Club was held at the home of Phyllis Smith on East Huron River Drive. Rhea Clark, program chairman for the evening, introduced as guest speaker, Tom Mac Indoe, executive director of Girlstown, whose talk centered on the 25 most frequently asked questions about Girlstown.

In his presentation he explained the background and workings of Girlstown, which is sponsored by the Michigan State Federation of Women's Clubs. At present, he said, there is a fulltime staff of nine including professional child care workers, a program director and clinical and executive directors, a far cry from the parttime, student-type staff of a few years back.

He went on to report that despite great improvements, there are still several problems facing Girlstown, one being that of schooling. Along with other local social agencies, Girlstown is working toward the development of an "alternative high school" designed specifically to better meet the needs of the young people involved with these agencies.

After a brief question and answer period, the group enjoyed refreshments served by Connie Etter who had on display the wildflower centerpieces to be featured as door prizes at the annual card party the club will sponsor on Feb. 15 at North Junior High School.

During the business session, several club members volunteered to assist at "Epilogue", the public presentation of "Water Under the Bridge", a history of Van Buren Township.

In answering rollcall, the 10 members introduced two guests for the evening, Ellie Grudzien and Mary Beth Mazur.

The next gathering, the club's annual Christmas party on Dec. 14, will be held at the home of Suzie Druker.

School district advisory council asks for support

At a meeting with Van Buren school board members and administrators, a large group of concerned parents heard proposals for cutting programs to balance this year's budget.

Faced with the possibility of cuts to an already reduced program, the group decided to form an Advisory Council which would look for solutions to the problems caused by an unexpected loss of state aid. The loss resulted from a decline in enrollment of about 280 students.

At the Advisory Council's first meeting, a steering committee was elected and several working committees formed. Committees were named to (1) examine the school budget for funds which could be used in new ways (2) gather information on the current crisis and pass it on to the community (3) suggest possible cost savings to the school board (4) contact state legislators about help from the state government (5) solicit suggestions and opinions from the general public (6) provide a way for parents and students to work together toward solutions (7) to act as a clearing house for groups already working on the problems so that duplication of effort could be avoided.

While considerable work has begun in all areas, the council needs the active support of many more parents and students. Persons interested in improving the level of education offered in the school district are invited to join the council.

This council also needs input from all concerned citizens. Comment boxes will be set up in each school in the district. Flyers will be sent home with the students. Now is the time for each and everyone of us to give constructive suggestions, criticisms or express concerns about the problems facing the future education of our children.

Simply drop off your comments in any of the boxes, no signatures are necessary.

This council will try to get you honest answers to your questions and will review all suggestions and criticisms with an open mind. This is a neutral council, working hard to find solutions and your response is of great importance.

Council findings will be discussed at a hearing on Dec. 10, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., in the lobby of the high school auditorium. Please attend.

People wanting to learn more about the council's activities or wishing to work with the various committees can contact any of the following persons for more details or meeting times:

Recent holiday spent out of state

By LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Hunter are back home on Karr Road after spending the Thanksgiving week on the West Coast. The retirement party of her sister, Alice Brandt, prompted their trip to San Francisco.

Miss Brandt, who had been superintendent of the Northern California School for the Neurologically Handicapped, received commendations from the state legislature and United State Senator Hyakawa for her contributions to education.

Following the retirement party, Miss Brandt, the Hunters and Philip and Joy Brandt motored along the coastline and through the redwood areas where they inspected fisheries and lumbering companies while staying at resorts in Elk, Eureka, Clear Lake, Garberville and Auburn.

Unbeknownst to them at the time, they were driving about 30 miles from the center of a 5-point earthquake on the Andreas Fault but did not feel the tremor in their car.

THEY WERE IN MISSOURI

Another family spending the holiday out of state was the Ferguson five — Roger, Diane, Leslie, Shawn and Shari — who had the fun of their first plane trip as they winged their way to Kansas City, Mo.

Their first Thanksgiving away from home, the group spent five days with Roger's uncle and aunt, Tom and Dorothy Hagan, and his 91-year-old grandmother, Mrs. Myrtle Ferguson, who hosted a turkey dinner and all the trimmings on Nov. 24 at their home in Gladstone.

Before returning home, the Fergusons were taken on a tour of the area which included seeing the Truman homestead and library in Independence. They attended a dinner theater performance of "Harvey" and on Thanksgiving night saw the famous old North Kansas City Plaza turned aglow for the Christmas season.

On the Sunday before they left Michigan, Roger and Diane hosted an early holiday dinner at their home on Harris Road. Sharing the festivities and traditional menu were Art and Verdys Shephard, Brian and Nancy Shephard, Jim and Pat Shephard and their two children, Fay and Mary Ferguson, Bob Ferguson and children, the Richard Fergusons and the Richard Jahncakes from Montrose.

The group also extended best wishes to the Fay Fergusons whose wedding anniversary was Nov. 27 and to Verdys Shephard who had a birthday on Nov. 17.

BRIDE-TO-BE-HONORED

Come the new year and January 7, Lorel Wolfe will become the bride of Dale Nolf. While she was home from Kalamazoo for the recent holiday, Lorel was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. Walter Nolf on Edison Street.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Kenn Nolf of Lansing, Mrs. Alan Nolf and daughter, Lisa, of Madison Heights and Kathy Wolfe of Belleville.

Bridal theme games were the evening entertainment for some 25 relatives and friends including the engaged couple's mothers, Mrs. Muriel Wolfe and Mrs. Vera Nolf.

After Lorel had unwrapped her gifts, a lunch of salads, fancy breads, punch and coffee was served. A cake made and decorated by Kathy Wolfe was served for dessert.

Guests from Mt. Pleasant, Marine City, Madison Heights, Lansing, Monroe, Carleton, Ypsilanti and Belleville are now looking forward to the winter wedding at the First United Methodist Church of Belleville.

Lorel, who graduated from Western Michigan University last April, is now employed in the diet kitchen of Borgess Hospital in Kalamazoo. Her fiancé will graduate from WMU this month.

Twenty-three present and past members of the Belleville "Kitchen Belles Band" were guests at a winter party held at the home of director Myrtle Wells whose co-hostess was Betty Hunter.

Cards were written to the five members who were unable to attend because of illness.

Musical games were played with prizes being won by Leona Agge, Margaret Saunders, Myrtle Goble and Nellie VanWormer. Founder Ethel Cullina was honored in a rocking chair by the fireplace.

Members contributed an assortment of salads to add to the punch, appetizers, cake and celebrated together since their organization time all members had in 1974.

Peace be with you

Golden wedding day celebrated

At a reception given by their six children, Mr. and Mrs. Allie (Jack) McCraight of 7355 Taft, Romulus, marked their golden wedding anniversary.

Held on the very date of their wedding, Nov. 26, the party took place at the Romulus Progressive Hall with 150 guests attending. Greeting the relatives and friends were Mrs. W. Along with their six children, there are 20 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren in the family.

Mrs. McCraight, who wore a gold dress made especially for the occasion by her daughter, Neola Daunt, was Lillian Weinkauf of Waltz when she was married in 1927 by Justice of the Peace William Hamilton in Willow, Mich. A corsage of gold sweetheart roses accented her dress.

Among those attending were the couple's wedding attendants and their spouses, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Sparrow of Ypsilanti and Mr. and Mrs. Milton McCraight of Belleville.

The 4-tiered wedding cake, decorated with gold roses and a gold "50", was made by friends of the couple, Dorothy Idleman and her daughter, Lona Van Wyke.

Until his retirement in 1972, Mr. McCraight was employed by the University of Michigan as a security officer. He now spends his spare time bowling with the Romulus Senior Citizens and Cal's Barber Shop.

Silver bells peal for Romulus pair

The Robbinwood Manor Clubhouse in Taylor was reserved Oct. 9 for the open house which marked the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Marshick of Romulus.

The Marshicks, who reside at 27630 Wick Road, exchanged nuptial vows on Oct. 11, 1952 at St. John's Lutheran Church in Taylor. The former Delores Julien, Mrs. Marshick and her husband are the parents of two children: Mrs. William (Linda) Pershon of Taylor and Duane Marshick, who were hosts at the afternoon party.

Residents of the Romulus community all their married lives, the Marshicks have owned and operated Marshick and Son Texaco Service in Taylor for the past eight years. Prior to going into business for himself, Mr. Marshick worked as a highway truck driver for 12 years. He is a member of Westgate Masonic Lodge 520 in Detroit and his wife is a member of St. John's Lutheran Church in Taylor.

For the three o'clock buffet dinner, the hall was decorated with white streamers and silver and white wedding bells. A 3-tiered cake topped by a miniature bride and groom was the focal point of the table and was made by Mrs. Gayle Opatkiewicz, sister of the "bride."

Among the 120 guests attending the party were the honored couple's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Marshick of Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. George Julien of Luzerne, Mich. Members of the original wedding party in attendance were Richard Paruch of Inkster and Harold Shoemaker of East Jordan.

Assisting the hosts and hostesses with the celebration were Mrs. Thomas Marshick and Mrs. Carole Harrison.

Versatile goodies

Give them as a gift, serve to holiday callers or trim a tree with them. Quick Fondant Wafers, made with liquid fruit pectin, are a delicious and pretty way to plan for the holidays. (Photo courtesy Certo fruit pectin.)

By ELAINE JOSEPH Area Director
(557-1470)

The holiday shopping season can be disastrous to the dieter. There is so much to be done and so little time to do it in! It's up early in the morning and off to the shopping center to be sure of getting a parking space. And then dashing from one store to another to find just the right present for everyone on the gift-giving list.

Unfortunately, too many people try to save time during these hectic days by skipping breakfast — and that is dangerous! Especially for the dieter. There you are rushing about trying to get everything done in time — on an empty stomach. And shopping centers have more than their share of snack bars from which tempting aromas emanate, aromas which tantalize an empty stomach.

By noontime it is starvationville, and the easiest solution is tripping to the hamburger stand. No waiting, the pre-cooked grey piece of chopped meat is plopped on a bun, a side order of french fries scooped out of a warmer, globs of catsup added and presto! Instant lunch — dripping with empty calories. And because you're on the go on an empty stomach, you figure, you'd better have two.

The best way to solve this problem is to start the day with a nutritious, warm breakfast. Fortify yourself. With a full stomach, you'll be in a better position to avoid the temptations of empty calorie dispensing snack bars.

HEAVENLY CEREAL

- ¾ cup milk
- 2 oz. cottage cheese
- 1 slice diet-sliced bread

Toast and then crumble by hand. Add dash of cinnamon, dash of nutmeg. Add artificial sweetener to taste. Heat milk plus the 2 oz. of cottage cheese in saucepan over low heat, stirring until cheese starts to melt. Then add crumbled bread, sweetener, cinnamon, nutmeg. Serves 1.

This is one of my favorite pre-shopping breakfasts. When I'm embarking on a rigorous journey to buy my holiday gifts, I start the day with this chill-defying dish along with a glass of juice and cup of black coffee. It's just loaded with energy. And when you have a husband, two teenaged daughters, a home, a business, and lots of wonderful friends to buy for you need energy to get through the day.

Edible or decorative, fondant's easily made

Christmas may come once a year, but with it comes a whole calendar's worth of entertaining and gift giving. When friends stop by, it's good to know you have a few sweet nibbles on hand as well as an "extra" gift, especially from your kitchen.

This is where Quick Fondant Wafers come to the rescue. They're smooth, creamy confections easily prepared in advance of the holidays and store nicely until you need them. A mixture of Certo fruit pectin, confectioners sugar and flavor extract is kneaded until smooth and rolled out on a pastry board. Follow directions for preparing cutout shapes to be used as tree decorations. The basic fondant can be tinted to make the decorations that much more festive.

As you wrap gift packages of fondant wafers, be sure to show off several in a glass candy jar with tight fitting cover. Place cutout fondant figures on a miniature tree as an invitation for youngsters to select their own edible decorations.

Quick Fondant Wafers

- 1 bottle (6 fl. oz.) liquid fruit pectin
- 2 pounds confectioners sugar
- 1 pound (about) confectioners sugar
- 2 teaspoons peppermint, rum, almond or orange extract (optional)

24 drops (about) food coloring (optional)

Pour fruit pectin into a bowl. Gradually add 2 pounds confectioners sugar, mixing well after each addition. Add flavoring and food coloring. (Mixture will be very stiff). Divide into four parts; wrap in wax paper or cover with a wet cloth. Use remaining 1 pound (about) confectioners sugar to dust board and rolling pin.

Place one fourth of the fondant at a time on a pastry board, well dusted with sugar. Knead until smooth, adding sugar to board as needed and lifting with a spatula to prevent sticking. (Any unrolled portion may be wrapped in wax paper or plastic wrap and stored at room temperature overnight.)

Roll out with sugar-dusted rolling pin, about ¼ inch thick, turning often and dusting with sugar to prevent sticking. Cut out with cookie cutters dipped in confectioners sugar. If desired, make a small hole at top of each wafer with a wooden pick. Place, top side down, onto wax paper on baking sheets or trays. Press trimmings together; knead again until smooth, roll and cut, or shape into small balls. Allow to dry, uncovered, for 24 hours, turning once. Pack wafers in layers between wax paper in a loosely covered box. Makes about 2-¾ pounds.

Note: To tint and flavor each portion of fondant differently, add ½ teaspoon extract and 6 drops food coloring after dividing.

For and about seniors

Our November "Senior of the Month" is Myron Jones of Romulus.

Myron was born in Poughkeepsie, N.Y., in 1901.

Shortly before Myron turned six his father died. Myron's mother then moved her family to Washington, where they could spend happy days on an uncle's ranch. In 1914, however, his family again moved, this time to Detroit. Myron attended Webster School on 21st Street, but at the age of 16 quit school to help his family. Myron's first job was as a delivery boy for Cunningham's Drug Store — his pay, $6 a week.

Another move took place, this time back to Poughkeepsie where he learned the machine trade. During this time Myron also spent a year in a New York hospital with tuberculosis.

In 1919, Myron made his last big move — back to Detroit. He went to work for the Moshell Printing Co., adding another trade to his accomplishments. He worked at Moshell for 18 years where he helped print a newspaper called "The Detroit."

In 1929 Myron married his first wife and opened a printing business in his home. In 1933, a year that changed the future of many when the banks were closed, Myron lost $30,000 dollars, money he had intended to use to expand his printing business.

Myron married his present wife, Lois, in 1937 and moved to Romulus where he owned property. During World War II, Myron went to work at Stinson Aircraft Co., once again using his knowledge of the machine trade.

At home Myron began raising chickens and selling eggs. In 1946 Myron returned from a visit up north with two cases of eggs. The sale of these put him seriously into the egg business. He was soon selling approximately 1,800 dozen eggs a week. With business doing so well, Myron added the sale of coffee to his egg route.

Myron prospered on his egg route until 1954 when he lost two-thirds of his business. He blames this on the cholesterol scare. He remembers a few old customers to this day, however, making sure they have their egg supply.

As though fate had not struck enough blows, Lois suffered a cerebral hemorrhage in 1974, leaving her partially paralyzed.

All these problems, though, have not dampened Myron's enthusiasm for life or his desire to help others. In 1969 Myron bought what he describes as a cheap tape recorder and began simulating radio programs and making tapes for the blind. At his own expense, he mails these tapes to interested persons anywhere in the country. A person receiving them need only abide by what Myron calls his "rules and regulations" for the tapes.

Myron is working on a new program. It is to be called "Strangers in a Foreign Land", and will be about travel in Europe and the Holy Land.

Myron, who is known as "The Old Philosopher" on his tapes, left us with these thoughts: "Think young and you will feel young," and "The quickest way to double your money is to fold it once and put it back in your pocket."

The very nice Jones' would also like to give a word of thanks to Chore Service of Romulus. This service has helped them considerably since Lois' illness.

"Chore Service has also done a beautiful job of painting our house. We are very grateful."

Senior homeowners in line for larger federal tax break

With the price of houses going up every day, selling a home you have lived in for several years can be a revealing experience. The value of your home probably has skyrocketed.

While it's nice to make a profit on the sale of your home, the thought of paying taxes on that profit probably is not so nice. But, if you are age 65 or older, sell your home in 1977 or later, and meet a couple of requirements, thanks to a change in the tax law, you may be eligible for a larger tax break than in past years. In fact, claiming this break on the sale of your home can save you many dollars on your 1977 tax return.

If the adjusted sales price of the home you sell is $35,000 or less, you can exclude the entire gain from the sale of the home and pay no taxes on your profit. This means that if you bought a home for $15,000 in 1957 and sold it in 1977 or later with an adjusted sales price of $35,000, you would pay no tax on your $20,000 profit.

If the adjusted sales price is more than $35,000, the tax break is prorated. In the past, the full tax break could be taken only if the adjusted sales price was $20,000 or less. Of course, as indicated, you must be age 65 to benefit from this break.

When the law speaks of adjusted sales price, it means the amount you receive after paying selling commissions and certain allowable fixing-up expenses. For example, if you sell your home for $45,000, pay a selling commission of $1,500, and incur allowable fixing-up expenses, such as painting part of the interior of the house, of $500, your adjusted sales price is $43,000.

To report the sale of your home you use Form 2119, "Sale or Exchange of Personal Residence". After entering your sales price, selling commissions, and fixing-up expenses on the proper lines of the form and calculating your adjusted sales price, you must complete the form to determine the amount of your gain, and the amount of the gain, if any, that is taxable.

Form 2119 should be attached to your tax Form 1040, and the amount of taxable gain (after capital gain provisions) is ultimately added to the rest of your taxable income on Form 1040. Bear in mind you must use the 1040 form to claim this tax benefit.

Now, what are the requirements for claiming the exclusion on the sale of a personal residence by an older American?

First, you must have owned and used the property as your principal place of residence for at least five years within an eight-year period, ending on the date of sale.

The second requirement is that you must never have used the tax exclusion before, because it may only be used once in your lifetime.

More information on the sale of a home by older Americans is available free from the Internal Revenue Service in Publication 523, "Tax Information on Selling or Purchasing Your Home", and Publication 554, "Tax Benefits for Older Americans".

New Yule shows to air this month

During the week before Christmas, among all the timeless, encoring holiday specials, Channel 56 will present four brand new Christmas programs.

On Dec. 18 and 19 at 8 p.m., Colin Davis will conduct the Boston Symphony Orchestra performing the classic, "Handel's: Messiah". According to one music critic: "It is unlikely that anyone enjoying 'Evening at Symphony' comes to 'Messiah' a stranger; no sacred composition holds a surer place in the affection of the American public."

The second of the new specials features music of a different kind. "Christmastime with Mister Rogers," on Dec. 20 at 8 p.m., is an hour-long family special blending music, dance and fantasy. "Christmastime" will combine the lives of Rogers' neighborhood friends with the story of a 12-year-old ballerina who fears that her family will not be with her for Christmas. In addition to the Neighborhood, other locations filmed include the Southwest, the Rocky Mountains and the urban South.

Immediately following Mister Rogers is music of a third kind. At 9 p.m. Dec. 20, the Mormon Youth Symphony and Chorus are featured in "Sing We Noel". This program blends the grandeur of a symphony orchestra with the exuberance of wintertime sports for a delightful Christmas experience in an outdoor setting.

The fourth new special will be shown on Christmas Eve at 8 p.m. Raymond Burr will host the "Christmas Around the World". This Christmas Eve special, recorded earlier that same day, will bring Christmas celebrations to viewers all over the world from seven countries. Those places participating in the celebrations will be Bethlehem, Jerusalem, New Zealand, southern Bavaria, London, the Loire Valley, Jamaica and Columbia, S.C.

"Christmas Around the World" is a worldwide celebration of cooperation," said Burr. A Jamaican steel band, the Westminster Abbey chorus, Germany's Tolz Boys' Choir, 16th century Christmas music played on antique instruments in a French chateau, a celebration at the Church of the Nativity in Bethlehem, New Zealand Maori's celebrating in their special way and St. John's Armenian Choir in Jerusalem will be brought into Americans' homes for Christmas Eve. From America, there will be the University of South Carolina Choir, singing for all the world to hear.

Handicapped: When does therapy end?

When do people stop needing other people? Why is there a different attitude toward a person who depends on his auto mechanic from that toward the person whose successful functioning depends on continuing work with a physical therapist?

Bill Kiser, the 1976 Handicapped American of the Year, has given a lot of thought to these kinds of questions. Because of his own cerebral palsy, he knows what it is to depend on other people—and to strive for independence. His column this month deals with "When Does the Therapy End?"

By BILL KISER

Many handicapped people today are asking, "When does the therapy end?" As a person with a very severe cerebral palsy involvement, different forms of therapy have been, and still are, an important part of my life. I've been through the gamut of physiotherapy, and occupational therapy, and speech therapy, and comprehensive rehabilitation. Each has given me some benefits. None has been a panacea.

Many disabled people, especially the developmentally disabled, have compared therapy with education. Therapy was supposed to be a preparation for a better life. We often thought that when we completed our therapy we would begin to live like other people. This may be the case for some handicapped people, but for others of us it is a fallacy. Not only do we require therapy to accomplish any new goals, but it often is essential to maintain our present level of functioning.

As more severely handicapped people attempt to find employment, live independently, and function within their communities, they are finding that the need for rehabilitation services never ceases. Fortunately, there seems to be a growing realization on the part of many professional and lay leaders that the severely handicapped need follow-up services, if they are to reach and maintain their maximum potential.

Many of us find ourselves in a great dilemma because of this. On the one hand we are forced to admit that we need many types of therapy and on the other hand we resent what could be called the "therapeutic" outlook of others. We often have difficulty dealing with the fact that when we need others to help us, it can create problems in establishing normal, healthy relationships. This is often apparent in family situations. If a handicapped person has been dependent on those around him for a long period of time, it is difficult, if not impossible, for these people to see him as an equal human being.

My own work with rehabilitation publications is very rewarding, but I do not know whether the people I am working with see me as patient or co-worker. The fact that I often need their professional help does nothing to ease this problem. I sometimes want to write about the sex life of the African ant in order to escape from the therapeutic context.

It would be easy to blame this entire problem on the nonhandicapped. This is not wholly justified. Recently, when I sought professional advice on this very problem, I realized to my astonishment that by seeking help I was reinforcing the very problem that I was trying to solve. In our attempts to improve ourselves and gain a greater independence, we sometimes find ourselves developing a greater dependency on others.

If we who are handicapped require certain forms of therapy, does this mean we are inferior? This is the crux of the dilemma. If our need for therapy and other types of services does denote inferiority, we have little hope of gaining equal citizenship. It became evident during the recent White House Conference on Handicapped Individuals that disabled people do not feel that their need for special services should take away any of their rights as citizens.

When society learns to value interdependence more than independence for everyone, the handicapped will have a far greater chance of a rewarding life. Today most people are dependent on their plumbers, TV repairmen and auto mechanics—and think nothing of it. Barbers and beauticians provide necessary services without creating any stigma for their clients. Receiving ordinary medical care does not cast the average citizen in a dependent role. Why, then, should needing therapeutic assistance lower the image of a handicapped person?

Handicapped people should not feel inferior for their need of continuing therapy and special services. If such services enable them to be productive individuals, their status and rights should not be impaired in any way. True, therapy may never end for many severely handicapped people. Neither will education end for many so-called normal people. The same way that the dependency of the young child on a kindergarten teacher must come to an end as the student matures, so must the dependency model of the therapeutic relationship come to an end. Such a model does more than degrade handicapped people. It also deprives those who work with—and for—them of the satisfaction of helping fellow human beings achieve their full potential.

Scouts join in drive

Cub Scout Pack 739 of Merriman Elementary School in Romulus will be taking its turn at helping the handicapped employees of the Goodwill.

The Scouts passed out Good Turn Day bags on Nov. 19, and were ringing doorbells this Saturday in hopes that residents will be returning those bags filled with items for the Goodwill.

Old clothing and newspapers (bundled) were on front porches to be retrieved by the Scouts this weekend. On Good Turn Day, the same Scout who gave you the bag was there to reclaim it.

The old newspapers will be recycled into insulation by the Goodwill employees.

Pack 739 is a group of Scouts who care and will do their best to make this Christmas a little better for some people in need, a Pack spokesman said, asking: "So won't you help the Scouts to help the handicapped?"

"After all, people who need, need people who care."

HOLLY, JOLLY
CHRISTMAS

Yule opera, 'Night Visitor', opens at MH

"Amahl and the Night Visitors", the most popular Christmas opera ever written, will be seen in an all-new Michigan Opera Theatre production on Dec. 17 and 18 at the Music Hall Center. There will be a 2 p.m. matinee on both days, plus a 6:30 p.m. performance on Sunday. The opera, as with all MOT productions, will be sung in English.

Written by Gian Carlo Menotti, the one-act "Amahl" is the first opera created especially for television. It became an instant tradition after the nation first saw it on Christmas Eve 1951. Its inspirational story surrounds a heart-warming encounter between the Three Kings and a crippled shepherd boy, and the lesson in giving he taught them.

In the lead role of Amahl is 13-year-old Michael Wantuck, a rising young star from Bloomfield Hills. When Michigan Opera Theatre held a boys-only audition (following composer Menotti's wish that adults never be cast in the role of the young shepherd) the producers never expected to come up with such a seasoned stage professional as Michael.

Young Wantuck has starred in the title role in "Oliver" on tour with Vincent Price; has toured with Sandy Duncan in "Peter Pan"; and has appeared in other professional productions such as the drama "The Me Nobody Knows." On television, Michael has appeared on a Jackie Gleason special and in a number of commercials.

He also is the current national 12-year-old three-meter diving champion and has won a number of medals for his gymnastic abilities.

Other lead performers in "Amahl and the Night Visitors" are Thomas Parker, David Lemelin and Larry Albert as the Three Magi, and Astrid Tutelian as the Mother. The production also features a chorus of 11 and the chamber ensemble from Orchestra Detroit.

"Amahl" is being directed by Preston Terry and conducted by Steven Glenn. The new sets and lighting design have been created by David Johnson, and the new costumes are by Lorenzo Mascarenas.

Tickets for the Saturday and Sunday matinees can be purchased at the Music Hall box office at 350 Madison Avenue from 12 noon to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Telephone purchasing is possible by calling 963-7680 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Group arrangements can be made with Joan Heidt at 963-7622.

Hilberry features Miller 'twin bill'

A double bill of plays by Arthur Miller — "A View from the Bridge" and "A Memory of Two Mondays" — joins the Hilberry Theatre repertory at 8:30 p.m. Dec. 14, with previews at the same time Dec. 9 and 10.

When "A View from the Bridge" first opened on Sept. 29, 1955, at the Coronet Theatre in New York City, New York Times critic Brooks Atkinson called it a play with "power and substance.... everything about 'A View from the Bridge' rings true". Henry Hewes, writing for the Saturday Review, described it as "gripping, unflinchingly real as well as poetic".

Hewes called "A Memory of Two Mondays," originally presented on the same bill, "a real and important part of Arthur Miller's exploration of modern man's struggle against indignity". Walter Kerr, critic for the New York Herald Tribune, urged audiences to see the double bill as it was a "must for anyone who is at all interested in what the contemporary American Theatre is thinking about".

"A View from the Bridge," a second on the evening's bill, is being presented in the revision, which was so successfully produced in London in 1956.

Here Miller has recast verse passages from the original into prose, enlarged the women's roles and elevated the central character of Eddie Carbone, who is self-deluded like Willy Loman in "Death of a Salesman", but dies to save his name, like John Proctor in "The Crucible".

"A Memory of Two Mondays" is set in a large auto parts warehouse in Manhattan during the Depression. The play, an almost plotless tragi-comedy, focuses on the people who work in the warehouse, people defeated by their "endless, timeless, will-less environment", as Miller says.

Leading the cast of "A View from the Bridge" are Jim Birdsall, Dianne Winslow, Cynthia Dozier, Richard Gustin, George Christopher Kappaz and Gerald B. Roe.

The principal players in "A Memory of Two Mondays" are John L. Beem, Von Washington, Rhonda Smith, Mary Ottmann, Erick Devine, David D. Montee, Geoffrey Beauchamp and Mark Robbins.

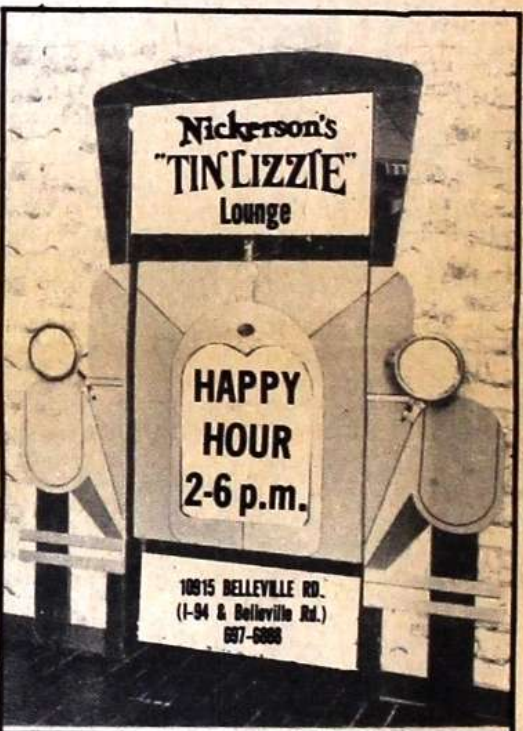

N. Joseph Calarco is directing both plays with set design by Mitch Fore, costumes by Ric Rice, and lighting by Gary M. Witt.

Information and tickets for the Hilberry are available from the box office at Cass and Hancock, or by calling 577-2972.

'Phantom of Hearth' 56's 'Visions' airs

One of the most popular and funniest shows from the "Visions" series will be repeated twice on Channel 56. "The Phantom of the Open Hearth" will be shown at 10 p.m. on Dec. 18 and again on Dec. 22 at 5:30 p.m.

"The Phantom of the Open Hearth" was adapted from Jean Shepherd's best-selling book, "Wanda Hickey's Night of Golden Memories, and Other Disasters". The well-known humorist narrates the film, which tells the story by means of flashback.

Curator to discuss pressed glass use

People fascinated by the tints and texture of antique glassware can immerse themselves on Dec. 9 in an informative Henry Ford Museum lecture on the first major American innovation in glassmaking — 19th century pressed pattern glass.

Jane Shadel Spillman, associate curator of American glass, the Corning Museum of Glass, will present a lecture and slide presentation on the manufacture by pressed glass techniques of pitchers, candleholders, goblets, plates, complete table settings and other items. Slides will show objects in both the Henry Ford Museum collection and The Corning Museum of Glass. The lecture will be in Henry Ford Museum Theater at 8:30 p.m., and admission will be $3.

Pressed glass-making, which employed a stamping machine to imprint designs into heated, soft glass, emerged in the 1820s and continued through the century. Ms. Spillman will tell the story of pressed pattern glass through the documents of the era, such as patents and catalogs.

Ms. Spillman is an authority on American glass and historical archaeology. She holds a bachelor of arts degree from Vassar College and a master of arts degree in museum studies from the Cooperstown Graduate Program. She also has undertaken archaeological excavations at English and American glass factories. She has been employed at the Corning Museum of Glass of Corning, N.Y., for 12 years.

Five other distinguished speakers also will highlight specialized areas of Early American decorative arts and culture during the current lecture series.

On Jan. 13, George O. Bird, formerly senior curator of Decorative Arts, Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum, will discuss "Art Pottery of the United States." On Feb. 10, Sarah B. Sherill, associate editor, the Magazine Antiques, will offer "The World at our Feet: Floor Coverings in America, 17th to mid-19th Century".

On March 10, Phillip H. Curtis, curator of Decorative Arts, the Newark Museum, will review "A History of Procelain Manufacture in America". On April 14, Henry J. Kauffman, noted author, lecturer and collector, will survey the subject of "A History of American Metals".

A trip to the country to find a special tree to grace the family's living room at Christmas is an age-old custom that is being revived each year at Michigan's choose-and-cut Christmas tree farms, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Even a latter-day Scrooge can't help but get in the holiday spirit after a wagon ride through a snowy field of evergreens with the entire family," said Joseph Ratke, Auto Club touring manager.

Each year more farms than ever go out of their way to make tree-cutting trips special events by offering pony and wagon rides, Yule log fires and train rides, plus free treats and weekend visits by Santa, he added.

At many of the farms listed on the Auto Club's guide, hot apple cider and homemade donuts are sold and there are farm animals children can feed and pet.

"One owner even dispenses free peach brandy recipes, while another sells handmade toys from the

For a small charge, at least one farm treats spruce trees—which usually drop needles fastest—with a preservative to retard shedding.

Michigan's farms sell more than a dozen tree types, with prices ranging from $1 for Scotch pines to $20 for blue and Norway spruce and up to $50 for large flocked trees—sealed and sprayed with special snowy coating.

Auto Club offers these tips for persons cutting their own trees this season:

—If going on a weekend, bring a hand saw. Although 67 farms lend saws, they all may be in use upon arrival. Axes are not allowed on most farms.

—Keep in mind that while most pines and Douglas firs hold needles, balsams and spruces shed profusely, if not properly watered.

—Although most farms provide twine to tie trees to cars, bring rope just in case. Tie the tree's base at the front of the car.

—Store trees in a bucket of water in a cool area. Before placing in a stand, cut an inch or two off the base to help the tree absorb water. Fill the stand with water daily.

Always check Christmas lights for bare wires before decorating and make sure electrical outlets won't be overloaded.

Yule stamps offered

Yuletide mailers can choose this year between two attractive Christmas stamps when applying appropriate postage to holiday greetings and parcels being sent through the mail.

A colorful design of a rural mailbox, crammed with letters and packages, will add a cheery touch to holiday mail, and customers interested in history may choose the design of Gen. George Washington kneeling in prayer during the winter of 1777-78 at Valley Forge.

The Washington stamp pays tribute to the Continental Army which spent Christmas, marred by severe hardships and semistarvation, at Valley Forge in Pennsylvania.

After an unsuccessful effort against the British at Germantown, General Washington and his troops retreated to Valley Forge. Two days before Christmas, Washington wrote: "We have this day no less than 2,873 men in camp unfit for duty because they are barefooted or otherwise naked..."

This design, by artist Steven Dohanos, is based upon a painting by J.C. Leyendecker, which appeared as a Saturday Evening Post cover in 1935.

An 'unprecedented' ANP team

33 grididders named 'All-Area'

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

It is customary to hyperbolize and hit the keys on the typewriter that only turn out superlatives such as "the best" when describing the "All-Area" football players.

It is true... the 1977 prep grid crop is the finest in recent years.

This year, the ANP sports staff and area coaches also shied away from tradition and, instead of selecting the usual 22 or 23 players for the mythical team, named 33 for the accolades.

As one coach explained, "We should have a team that we could put on a field ready to compete and with ample supply of reinforcements so that we could substitute freely."

The unprecedented All-Area football team could do that, and much more. It's offensive lineup, with such outstanding quarterbacks as Plymouth Salem's Rich Hewlett and Westland John Glenn's Bill Lee could, without being hyperbolic, can stack up with the best in the state.

The offensive All-Area alignment also includes running backs Jerry Cifor (Livonia Franklin), Doren Mason (Livonia Churchill), and Kelvin Patterson (Belleville).

This year's ends on offense are sure-handed Jim Irwin (John Glenn) and Larry Vojtkofsky (Wayne Memorial).

Up front providing protecting for the QB and opening up the holes are guards Mike Nyheus (Plymouth Canton), Paul Neville (Churchill) and Mike Bossory (New Boston Huron), while All-Stater Bob Dasher (Plymouth Salem) and Larry LeValley (New Boston Huron) hold down the center positions.

The All-Area tackles on offense include Tom Jurewicz (John Glenn), Bob Tamm (Cherry Hill), Bruce Piper (Plymouth Salem) and Mike Broome (Franklin).

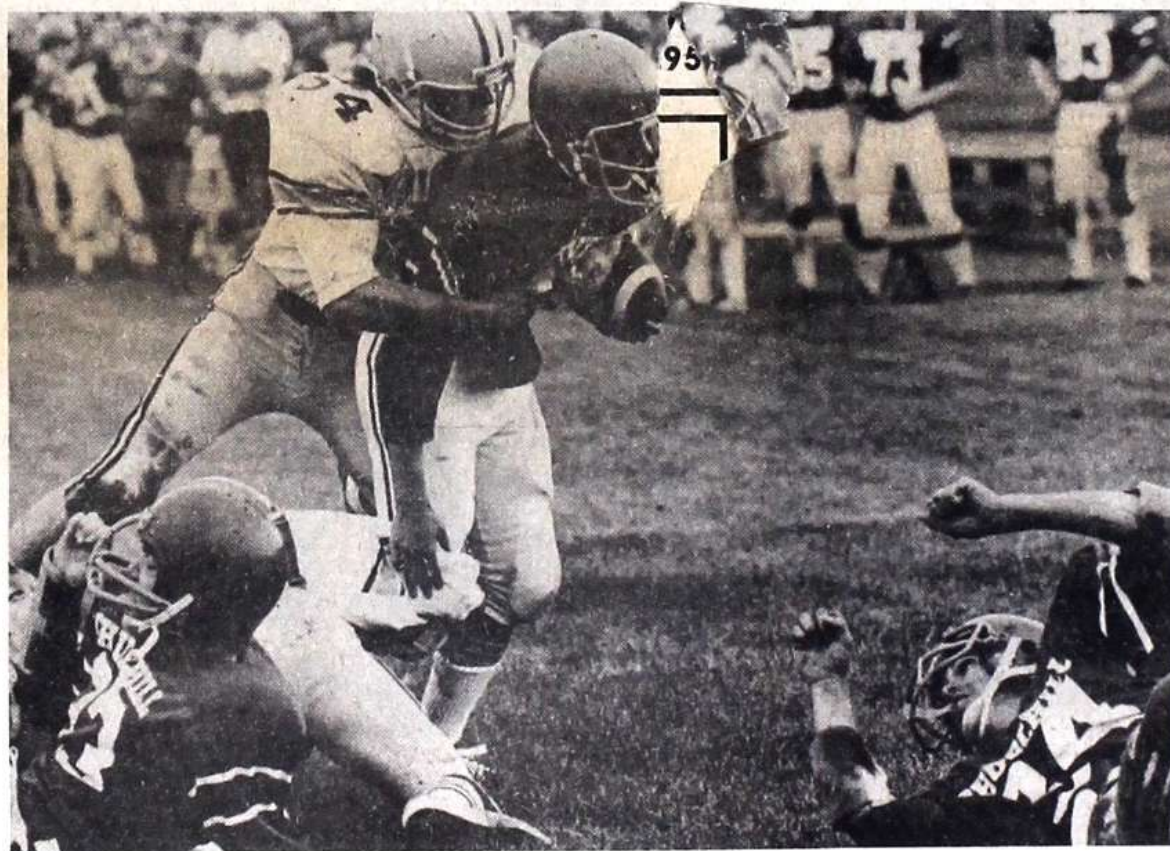

LEE, one of Glenn's tri-captains, ends a three-year varsity career at Glenn in which he started at quarterback for two. He holds 14 school records and this year connected on 45 of 90 passes for 715 yards and nine touchdowns. During his three years, the 17-year-old, 6-0, 175-pound senior has thrown 178 passes and had only three intercepted. He was the all-Northwest Suburban Conference quarterback for the past two years and was voted by the coaches in the league as "the outstanding back of the conference in 1977."

"Lee gave us great leadership along with superb quarterbacking," said first year coach Chuck Gordon, whose Rockets finished 7-2 on the season and shared the conference title with Livonia Franklin.

HEWLETT was the Coach Tom Moshimer's wishbone offense. The versatile junior was the mainstay of the Rock attack and led his team to an untarnished 9-0 regular and a 7-0 Suburban 8 Conference season.

Salem entered the post-season playoffs without the services of their injured junior quarterback and lost to Portage Central. It is only speculation, of course, but few believe that Portage would have escaped the Rocks with Hewlett in the lineup.

The 17-year-old junior broke his collarbone against Dearborn, the final game of the league season and missed the last two games. But during the time he spent on the field he managed to chalk up 900 yards and rushed for an average of nine yards per carry.

A good harvest

The pictures of the players you see here on these pages are a credit to their coaches, their schools, their families and their communities. They represent long hours of 'plain hard work', of victory and defeat, of frustration and glory - they helped make the 1977 high school year an exciting one. But, these players are here because of their teammates who didn't get the ink, nor the headlines or the glory. They opened up the holes for the yardage, kept the teams' hopes alive when they were diminishing and stuck to their jobs when all they possibly could get was self-satisfaction that they also were members of the team. And to them and the fans who stayed by their teams, congratulations.

this fast-moving running back. During his junior year he amassed 744 yards, scored four touchdowns and averaged four yards per try. He also caught three passes for 45 more yards and completed four tosses for an additional 62 yards.

"It's no secret that we didn't have the offensive line that we did a year ago," Coach Pat Stokes noted. "We can only speculate on what Kelvin would have accomplished this year if he had gotten the blocking and the holes."

Kelvin was "Mr. Everything" for the Tigers as he also returned the punts and kickoffs to the tune of 370 yards. Drafted to play a safety on defense, Patterson also counted 26 tackles in his part-time role.

IRWIN seemed to always be at the right place at the right time for the Rockets. He made 19 catches which were translated into 385 yards for 20.1 yards per reception. He also accounted for five touchdowns and established four new school records.

The Lee-to-irwin passing threat was one of the best in the school's history.

VOJTKOFSKY, who is as tough a player as his name is to pronounce, (and spell) was a two-way starter for Wayne Memorial this season, handling both a defensive back and wide receiver's job.

"Larry has sure hands and is a tough hitter," Wayne Coach Floyd Carter said. "He is one of the toughest players around and served as one of our captains."

Vojtkofsky averaged 14 games per reception and also averaged at least one interception per game.

NYHEUS, considered Plymouth Canton's best offensive lineman, has been "Mr. Consistency" on Coach Dave Schuele's team. The 6-2, 202 pound rugged senior was an unanimous Western Six Conference choice and has been named to several area teams.

"I've been coaching a long time," said Schuele, "and I sincerely feel that Mike is one of the best, if not the best, offensive lineman I have ever coached. His blocking efficiency is way up there and, you know, we had to use him both ways so he had to be tired and he still got the job done."

BOSSORY, who started his athletic career at Romulus High, transferred to New Boston Huron to complete his senior year. And Coach Tom LeBeau was happy that he did. Mike helped to stabilize the Huron line, according to LeBeau.

NEVILLE, a 6-0, 190-pound junior, was instrumental in opening up the holes for Mason and was one of the Chargers' leaders.

"Paul has great speed to go along with his size," said Kaestner, "and opponents really respected him. He's a real competitor and he'll form the nucleus of our team next year."

Defense provides a winning edge

In a world of ever-changing defenses, one element remains constant in football no matter what kind of alignment a coach uses: the defense can win or lose ball games.

The Associated Newspapers All-Area defensive team is rich in talent, and wise in football acuity. The 17 players and a kicking specialist honored on these pages are some of the reasons that most of the area teams had a winning season in 1977.

Subsequently, of the teams covered by the ANP, three - Plymouth Salem, Livonia Franklin and Westland John Glenn captured conference championships. Salem posted a perfect 9-0 record and its only loss was sustained in the post-season Class A state playoffs to Portage Central.

Glenn and Franklin shared the Northwest Suburban Conference title.

This year's All-Area Defensive alignment features: down linemen Chris Leverenz (Wayne Memorial), Jeff Wauer (New Boston Huron), Jim Bossel (Livonia Churchill) and Mike Ostrander (Wayne Memorial). The middle guard is Belleville's Brent Verrot.

The ends for the All-Area team are Rick Burns (Westland John Glenn), Tom Rizzo (Belleville), and John Broderick (Plymouth Salem).

The linebackers include: Doug Agnew (Plymouth Salem), Jerry Cook (John Glenn), Gordie Wheeler (Livonia Franklin), Paul Svabik (John Glenn), and Jon Sweet (Cherry Hill). The defensive halfbacks are Larry Acton (Franklin), Curt Lewis (Plymouth Salem) and Rick Searcy (Cherry Hill).

Breaking from tradition, the ANP this year also nominated a kicker for the All-Area team. He's sure-footed Don Boka who has saved the Patriots with his field goal and punting in more than one game.

In fact, Boka didn't miss an extra point try this season and he booted three field goals. Punting-wise, he averaged 35 yards a try.

"Boka has tremendous potential," said Franklin Coach Armand Vigna. "His versatility makes him indispensable. We not only used him as a kicker, but a defensive lineman and when our quarterback was hurt, Don also handled that position."

LEVERENZ was the team leader and captain, pointed out Coach Floyd Carter. A unanimous pick for the all-Great Lakes 8 Conference teams, Chris has made these pages as an All-Area grappler and is considered one of the finest wrestlers in the state.

As a gridder, however, he accounted for 81 initial hits and 41 assists and sacked the quarterback at least a dozen time for losses. His teammates have awarded him the coveted "Headhunter" Trophy three times this year for his outstanding defensive play.

WAUER is a three-year letterman who helped turn Huron's football program around. He counted 10 solo tackles this year, 52 assists and had four solos of the QB.

"Jeff and Larry LeValley helped anchor our defensive line," said Coach Tom LeBeau, "and the two provided us with an excellent 1-2 punch."

BOYSEL is a very aggressive gridder who loves contact and knows hard-hitting. The 6-0, 185-pound senior doesn't have the big size usually associated with the position, but Coach Ken Kaestner's team is groomed more for speed than size. His prep grid career may have ended, but the college scouts predict a good future for him.

OSTRANDER has the size - he's 6-3 and 215 pounds -- and has been labeled as "one of the finest blocking tackles who has ever worn a Wayne football uniform," according to Carter.

A two-way starter for the Zebras at tackle, Ostrander was one of the reasons why Wayne rivals usually went to the air or kept their game plan with Mike in mind.

VERROT was Belleville's leading tackler. He compiled 100 unassisted and assists during a campaign that found the Tigers usually on defense most of the time. Brent also recovered a near-record seven fumbles and for his outstanding and unselfish performances was elected the Tigers' MVP and co-captain.

"Definitely our team leader through the 1977 season," noted Coach Pat Stokes.

BURNS is categorized as a "very physical and intense competition," according to Coach Chuck Gordon. "He's the kind of player every coach dreams of having on a team. He's very coachable and is tireless in his effort."

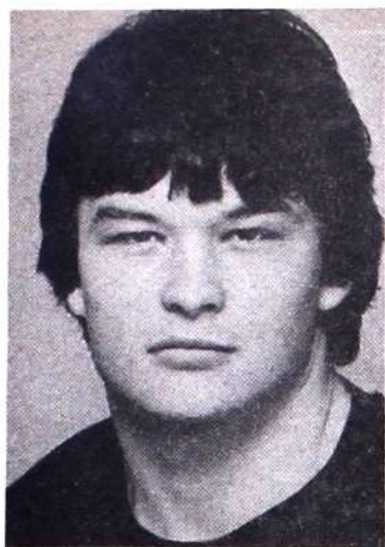

A two-year varsity starter at the defensive end slot, Rick also made it on the all-league team.

RIZZO has the ability, the drive and the size to play on almost any team in the nation. The 6-0, 190-pound senior played "one of the most difficult positions for us and came through with 38 initial tackles and 40 assists," Stokes said. "Tom also had four tackles for losses and recovered a fumble."

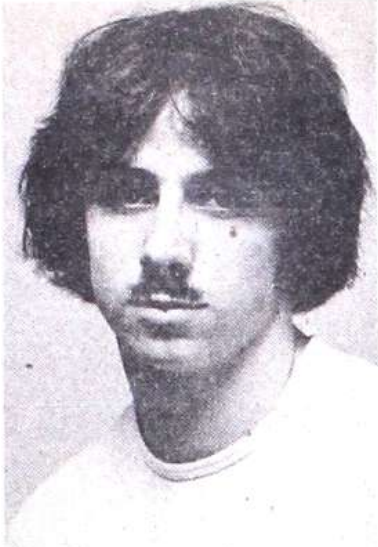

"If everyone on our team played as well as Rizzo did, we would have had a more successful season," Stokes offered.

COOK, a 17-year-old Glenn tri-captain, has won three varsity letters on Rocket teams that have captured the last two editions of the Northwest Suburban Conference championship and finished second three years ago. The school's leading tackler - he has 200 points in including the "All-State" team this season. And his credentials, which included a 90 percent blocking grade, make him one of the most sought-after prep athletes in the state. One of the co-captains of the championship team, Bob has the size, speed and intelligence to play for any of the Big 10 Conference teams.

"But, as yet, he hasn't made up his mind where he'll attend college," Moshimer pointed out.

LeVALLEY is a three-year, two-way starter for the Chiefs who posted a 5-4 won-lost record which was the first winning season at Huron in nearly a decade.

"We didn't have one fumble on an exchange this year or a bad snap," LeBeau noted, "and Larry is to be given credit for all of that. You could rely on him to come through for you."

A tri-captain, LeValley also doubled as an end on defense.

JUREWICZ has been a regular in the Glenn lineup for the last two years and has helped the Rockets compile an enviable 16-2 won-lost record over that span. A tri-captain who was named to the all-conference and all-suburban teams, he is known as "Mr. Consistent" on the Glenn team.

"He is a very smart student-athlete (3.5)," noted Coach Gordon, "and doesn't make many mistakes."

Tom also is a starter on the Rocket cage team, a position he has held for the past two years.

TAMM is one of three Cherry Hill players to be named to the All-Area team and is among the first to represent the Spartans and Coach Jerry Pawloski on this squad.

"We basically were a sophomore and junior team," Pawloski noted,

"and Tamm helped us move from last place to second place in the conference this season."

"He's worthy of a lot of praise for his part on the line, and he will be a tremendous asset to us a year from now," Pawloski added.

PIPER didn't get the headlines — the linemen usually don't, but he was an important link in the Salem line that proved to be the best in the Suburban 8.

"Bruce is a solid performer," Moshimer said, "and it's players like him that just makes our job easier."

BROOME has excellent lateral movement and "was all over the field for us," said Coach Vigna. "He is our 'Mr. Steady' and played a fine game both ways for us."

A member of the varsity squad for the past two years, like his colleagues, Broome also made the all-conference team.

one game alone he was credited with 12 solo tackles, a school record. A strong athlete who can bench-press 315 pounds, he was named to the conference team as well.

"Jerry is a really unselfish kid," said Coach Gordon. "He's always thinking of the other players first."

BRODERICK, at 6-4, 200-pounds, is excellent college material. He has considerable experience at both the linebacker and end positions and his power is respected by teammate and opponent alike.

WHEELER, was a two-way starter for Vigna's Patriots and his presence on the field intimidated the offense. Ball carriers usually shied away from this veteran griddier who, according to Vigna, "reacts and reads plays very well."

AGNEW is another one of those blue chip players who college coaches would like to get their hands on. He contributed much to the success of the Rocks' team this year, and his future will include football at some college in the state.

SVABIK is a two-way starter, two-year varsity performer who made the all-conference team as a linebacker. One of the smartest field players Gordon has ever coached, "Paul reads the 'keys' and reacts to them quickly."

Gordon said that Svabik, along with the rest of his All-Area candidates, "have been looked at by college scouts."

SWEET was the mainstay of the Cherry Hill defense, which carried much of the load for the Spartans. Coach Jerry Pawloski hasn't had many bright spots in the past, but thanks to Sweet and players like him "we've turned the corner and will be tough in the future."

ACTON, a dedicated player, has played both offense and defense for the Franklin Patriots and, incredibly, from his defensive half-back position accounted for 32 solo tackles — which is a team record.

What is a defensive halfback doing making so many solos? Vigna was asked. He replied: "Our defense is fashioned so that the halfbacks get a good shot at the ballcarriers."

Vigna added, "that Larry is a very hard hitter for his size."

LEWIS gave the Salem Rocks excellent depth in the secondary and showed that he also is a college-caliber griddier. He came on strong when the Rocks needed it during clutch situations and his presence gave the undisputed Suburban 8 Conference champs a lot of security against aerial attacks.

SEARCY rounds out the defensive unit and his speed and aggressiveness were responsible for making the Spartan secondary formidable. He took on anyone or anything that came near him and usually emerged the winner.

Searcy, Sweet and Tamm are the first football players ever to be named to this honor roll from Pawloski's team.

One can bet that they won't be the last.

The Children's Center at Washtenaw Community College is sponsoring a book fair today and tomorrow.

The sale will be held in the cafeteria of the Learning Materials Center Building on campus from 9:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. The college is located at 4800 East Huron River Drive, Ann Arbor.

The books will be provided by the Logos Book Store.

Twenty percent of the money from the sale will assist the center in securing new books, according to Patricia Travis, co-ordinator of the Children's Center.

"We are hoping to raise $200 from the sale for matching funds for the 'Reading Is Fundamental' program, sponsored by the Smithsonian Institute," she explained.

A seasonal special for children will be "Lunch with Santa", slated for 1 p.m. Saturday and Dec. 17 at the Children's Farm of Kensington Metropark near Milford.

The program will be held at the Farm House Inn Restaurant.

The cost will be $2.25 per person and will include admission to the farm, visits with the animals and a mini-lunch of hot dogs, potato chips and milk.

Survival planning; Good hunting practice

As I write this column a radio bulletin has just announced the termination of the search for the missing Warren youth who was last seen tracking a wounded deer on the edge of a Kalkaska swamp.

Last October, while hunting unfamiliar terrain on Bois Blanc Island, I was tracking a deer that I had wounded. As night fell I found myself in an unbelievably thick tangle of wind downed trees and briars.

As I fought my way through, around and out to the edge of the road I headed in the direction in which I felt the hotel lay. After 20 minutes of walking down the road I realized that I was going in the wrong direction.

For one fleeting moment I had the sinking feeling that I was lost. Fortunately, I merely headed in the other direction and shortly I was sitting in the hotel feeling none the worse for my momentary misadventure.

Most talk of survival and survival techniques puts people in mind of wilderness areas. However, a fifty acre swamp can be a veritable jungle should you become disoriented. Knowing survival techniques and having the means with which to survive could keep you from spending a long uncomfortable night in the woods, or possibly could decide whether you come out at all.

When I returned from Bois Blanc I immediately started assembling a survival pack. I bought what is known as a day pack for about ten dollars, and found that it would also serve quite well to carry my "possibles" afield. Possibles are items that a bow hunter feels he might have need of in the field. In this easy to carry style of back pack I placed the following items:

- 25' of 3/8" nylon rope
- 1 poncho
- 1 small hand towel
- 1 pair gloves
- 1 pull over hat
- 1 compass
- 1 backpackers axe
- 10 sticks of jerky
- assortment of bandages
- 1 small canteen
- 1 small metal mirror
- 25' of 1/8" nylon rope
- 1 sportsman blanket
- 1 small plastic bag
- 1 pair wool socks
- 1 medium weight sweater

- 1 knife
- 1 disposable flashlight
- 3 high energy breakfast bars
- 1 small bottle insect repellent
- water proof matches
- 1 whistle
- 1 handkerchief
- 1 deer hoist pulley
- 1 pack of gum
- 1 bottle of buck lure
- camouflage makeup
- red yarn for marking blood trails
- hard candy

While the size of the list makes it seem like quite a lot of stuff, it really packs up quite small. The pack is handy because you can keep everything packed at all times, and still have room to take a sandwich and thermos of coffee with you for your day of hunting. The day pack isn't uncomfortable to wear and it leaves both hands free should you get a shot while walking to your blind.

While at first I felt a little silly carrying a "survival" pack, I now consider it a vital part of my hunting gear. My oldest boy will start deer hunting next year and he too will be carrying his own survival pack. After hearing about the misfortune of the Warren youth, I feel the six pounds the pack weighs is well worth the added effort of carrying it.

Gridders

Three area gridders were awarded letters for participation in the Grand Valley State Colleges' fall sports program.

Daryl Gooden, a former standout at Romulus in football, received his fourth stripe in football, while Dearborn Heights' Mack Lofton got his third numeral.

Herb Miller, also of Romulus, finished his third season with GV-SC's football team.

Managing to win only in two of the 12 weight classes, Livonia Churchill was no match for a veteran Dearborn Heights wrestling crew last week and succumbed 44-3 in a nonleague match.

Both teams were without wrestlers in the opening 98-pound class.

The chargers picked up a victory in the 119-pound category where Bob Riddle outwrestled Daren Dreher 6-5, while 145-pounder Brian Hecanoff disposed of Gary Perelli in 5:42 for a six-point victory.

Salem to test Tigers' wrestling title rights

With Trenton out of the way, Coach Gerald Malecek and Belleville's wrestlers turn their thoughts to Plymouth Salem, the one team that could upset the defending champs' plans for a repeat performance.

"In the many years we have wrestled them," said Malecek, "we have beaten Salem only once, and that was a year ago. They are tough and the outcome of our dual met could well decide who'll be the next champ."

Belleville travels to Salem on Thursday for the early showdown. Meanwhile, the Tigers opened the Suburban 8 Conference with a 45-21 victory over Trenton. Belleville lost four weight classes, "but, in three of them, we lost to transfers into the school district."

Catholic Central to duel Belleville for relays' crown

Belleville swimmers warmed up for the defense of their relays title by whipping Wyandotte 62-21 last Tuesday and dunking arch-rivals Ypsilanti 112-61.

Coach Sam Vicchy's Tigers will host the Belleville Relays on Saturday beginning at 1 p.m. The Tigers have invited Detroit Catholic Central, Wayne Memorial, Fordson, and Wyandotte to take part in the annual competition.

There is a $1 admission charge. "It's a good field," Vicchy pointed out, "and I feel Catholic Central has a good shot at dethroning us. We're basically a sophomore team this year and we're not used to the pressure and going so many yards."

Belleville didn't look "sophomoric" against Ypsi's Braves who took the opening relay and were shut out from first places in the swimming events the rest of the night. Howard Renton and Mike Stoelton split four of the eight remaining individual swimming events.

Renton was clocked in 2:11.0 in the 200-yard medley, leading a Tiger sweep as Tim Whittico and Terry Caves trailed him to the finish. Renton also won the 100-yard freestyle in 50.5.

Stoelton captured the 50-yard freestyle with a 23.6 effort, then covered the 100-yard butterfly in the winning time of 1:00.72.

Ypsi's divers swept the event with Laws chalking up 283.2 points.

Vicchy was pleased with the overall performance of sophomore Chris Renton and diver Dana Thorpe in the Wyandotte meet.

Meet results: Belleville 112, Ypsilanti 61

Praise for a coach

Since 1962 Bill Hawley has been coaching in the Wayne-Westland Community School District. His teams have won numerous track and basketball championships. But, more important, Hawley's athletes have been a credit to their community. Friday night, before the Great Lakes 8 Conference basketball opener, Wayne Memorial principal, George Bell (at left) presented the ex-track and basketball coach with a plaque of appreciation and former members of Hawley's teams were on hand to congratulate him. Hawley bowed out of coaching last year in order to accept the athletic directorship at the high school. (Sports Editor Tom Mooradian discusses some of the trials and tribulations during the Hawley Era in today's Sports Meridian.)

Beleaguered Tigers take on Allen Park

The beleaguered Belleville Tigers will head for Allen Park Friday night in search for their first Suburban 8 Conference basketball victory of the 1977-78 season.

Coach Tom Niemi's quintet came close last Friday at Dearborn, but it wasn't in the books as the Patriots held on to a 69-66 decision in the conference opener for both teams. Down by as much as 22 points in the first half, Belleville came back and tied the score on Kelvin Patterson's free throw with 1:38 left. However, Dearborn broke the 63-all tie at the foul line to register its first win of the season.

Niemi was satisfied with his team's performance in the second half but singled out "early foul trouble as the reason for the defeat."

"Dearborn shot 42 free throws," Niemi said, "and we had 28, but we got into foul trouble early and our people who came off the bench showed a lot of class and helped us stay in the game."

"It's unfortunate that when you play so well and so hard that your opponent beats you from the foul line."

Belleville found itself handcuffed early as three of the Tiger starters - Patterson, Rob Lange and Elvis Currie each were slapped with three personal fouls in the first period.

Capitalizing upon the Tigers' misfortunes, Dearborn raced to a 20-12 lead and stretched the advantage to 39-24 at intermission.

Belleville recovered from its shock in the second half, outscored their rivals 19-16 in the third and had the edge 23-14 in the fourth to make a game of it.

Dearborn restored to a stall in the final six minutes and made mistakes that led to Tiger baskets. Patterson, an All-Metro and All-Area selection a year ago, led the Tiger surge in the finale with nine of his game his 24 plays' as the major cause of its downfall.

"Taylor Truman executed their game plan well," Henry said, "and I feel that though we had a touch of first game jitters, that wasn't the reason for our loss. We just didn't execute well- they did.

"It's a credit to their (Truman's) players and coaches for executing as well as they did," Henry added.

For 16 minutes Wayne held off the taller and more experienced Truman quintet. The Zebras took the lead on Kyle Poteau's opening basket, then Mitchell reeled off his team's next four of five baskets mostly on tips.

The score tied at 6-all and 8-all wound up in a deadlock at 14-all for the first eight minutes.

Perry Durham and Mitchell scored the first two baskets of the second period to give the Cougars the lead for good. Ahead 22-16 with 3:45 left in the first half, the Cougars held on to the lead 26-23 at intermission.

Mitchell and Poteau exchanged baskets at the start of the third period, then the Cougars scored eight unanswered points to widen the margin to 40-27 with three minutes remaining. Wayne closed the gap to 42-32 with baskets by L.W. Mathews and Darnell Morris as the period ended.

Early in the fourth period Wayne came within seven points on a pair of baskets by Bob Boertje and Mathews but Mitchell again replied with an easy hook and Durham scored on a pair of free throws to move the visitors out in front 51-38 with less than four minutes left in the game.

After Morse and Boertje sank a pair of baskets to come within 13 points (57-44), Truman decided to go into a stall and hung on to the ball the last 1:10 of the game.

Mitchell, the mainstay of the Truman attack, sacked 14 baskets and two free throws for 30 points, the game high. He was the only Truman player in double figures.

Poteau and Morris sank 14 and 11 points, respectively.

Wayne will return to Great Lakes 8 competition Friday night, traveling to Taylor Center, the defending league champ. On Tuesday the Zebras will entertain Fordson, a team that always has title plans on its mind.

Rockets rest on Friday

Glenn loses 2 in a row

Getting an unexpected break in their schedule, Westland John Glenn has a night off Friday and Coach Gordie Davis will probably use the time to iron out the kinks that have led to two consecutive losses.

After whipping Taylor Kennedy in the season opener, the Westlanders have dropped back-to-back nonleagueurs to Cherry Hill (76-70) and to Clarenceville (62-60).

Glenn was to play Taylor Center Tuesday night and isn't scheduled for the hardwood again until Dec. 13 when the Rockets clash with Southgate.

"We got a bit careless against Clarenceville," said Davis "and that cost us that victory. We also blew a couple of good opportunities at Cherry Hill."

Up by five points with three minutes left against Clarenceville, Glenn committed a couple of turnovers which led to its demise. The Rockets threw the ball away, then missed on an easy layup which didn't help their cause any.

Tim McCamant, recently selected to the all-state football team, sealed Glenn's doom when he came up with the winning basket. It was only one of two baskets he got all evening.

It was 6-6 center Bill Peterson who caused most of the problems for the Westlanders. Peterson hit eight for eight from the field at one stretch to keep his team in the ball game after they had trailed by as much as 41-27 at the half.

Clarenceville outscored the Rockets 18-11 and 17-8 in the final two periods. Glenn couldn't buy that proverbial basket in the last eight minutes as it connected on only three of 15 shots.

The Westlanders looked as if they would have no problems with their nonleague rivals as Doug Martin scored eight points in the second period and Tom Jurewicz and Mitch

Preston wound up with 12 points, Glenn's high, and junior guard Darin Armstrong accounted for 11.

Peterson, who hit on 11 field goals and three free throws, strolled off the court with individual scoring (Continued on Page 5)

Huron wins third to remain 'perfect'

Steve Reitz and Randy Pichan combined for 39 of New Boston Huron's 58 points to spark the Chiefs to a 58-42 victory over Grosse Ile's Islanders Friday night.

The victory brought up the curtains to the Huron Conference competition and stretched the Chiefs' winning streak to three games.

Coach Gene Smith, happy about the victory, is dissatisfied with the team's offense.

"We're still sputtering offensively," Smith said. "I feel we're living off of our defense but we also have to put our offense in gear to stay on top."

Huron shares the conference title with Tecumseh and the two appear to beat heading for another title collision this year.

Huron took a six-point first period lead, 14-8, but saw it dwindle to three as the Islanders came back, 25-22 at halftime.

Grosse Ile lost its high-scoring center, Chris Chesley, midway in the third period to an injury. Chesley drove in for a layup and came down on the side of his ankle and sustained a sprain. He will be back in the Islander lineup next week.

"We had many opportunities in the second period to put the game away, and just didn't use them," Smith explained. "We missed eight free throws in that quarter and that made the game close."

Reitz connected on nine field goals and picked up four free throws for 22 points, while Pichan sank 17 points on eight from the field and one charity.

Before he departed from the game, Chesley chalked up his team high 15 points.

At the line the Chiefs were good for 12 of 30, while the Islanders made 12 of 15.

Rocks rip Franklin

Plymouth Salem, the defending Suburban 8 Conference champ, showed Livonia Franklin why it is considered as one of the top Class A page teams in the state this year.

Coach Fred Thomann's Rocks battered the Patriots 81-35 to launch the 1977-78 season. The victory also ruined Jim McIntyre's debut as Franklin's head coach.

"We looked bad," moaned McIntyre, "and they sure convinced me that they are among the best in the state."

Franklin was minus floor leader John Zannis who injured his ankle, but even with the 6-0 senior in the line-up, the outcome of the game wouldn't have changed by very much.

Salem had too much for the Livonians at both ends of the court. The Rocks pelted their rivals 21-8 in the first period and the outcome was never in doubt after that initial eight minutes.

Tom Ellinghausen scored 19 points and Mike Christie counted 14 for the winners who had 13 players in the scoring column.

Jeff Reich's seven points was the best the Patriots could muster.

Salem however will need to brush up with its free throw shooting as the Rocks capitalized on 19 of 35. The jittery Patriots hit on three of 11 shots at the foul line.

Pollard's MVP

Joe Pollard, former Livonia Franklin All-Area football star, was named the recipient of the Most Valuable Player Award on defense at Grand Valley State College this season.

Pollard, who helped his team capture the Great Lakes Conference championship, was also named to the all-conference and all-district teams.

Dave Champion, an All-Area griddler from Plymouth, also was awarded a letter.

Wayne regains 'WW' wrestling crown

Area teams 1-2-3 at Glenn tourney

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

If the John Glenn Invitational Wrestling Tournament is any indication of what lies ahead for area teams and fans, then hold on to the mats, we're in for a sizzling season.

The top three teams traded position eight times in the last 13 pairs of matches before Wayne nailed down the championship trophy, earning a narrow 4½ point victory over host Glenn. Glenn had a mere 3-point edge on Belleville.

Chris Leverenz, who appears on these pages as a member of the All-Area football team, sealed the team victory for Wayne when he used up five minutes to pin Belleville's Rick Briggs in the 191 pounds. Leverenz' performance also gave him a gold medal in that weight class.

Glenn needed a pin from its 191-pounder, Greg Potulski, in the consolation finals against his counterpart to keep the Westlanders' hopes alive and, though he won, 8-3 on a decision - it wasn't enough.

Tied with Belleville after 12 weight classes, Glenn settled for second place when heavyweight Jerome Robinson decisioned Mt. Clemens' Darren Campbell, 3-1.

Wayne reclaimed the championship trophy it handed over to Glenn a year ago at the Western Wayne Invitational.

Wayne, with 213 points, presented its rookie head coach, John Wood, with his first major tournament victory. The champs garnered 213 points and led an area sweep of the first three places. Glenn compiled 208½ points, while Belleville was third with 205½.

The three area teams also claimed 11 of the 13 gold medals with Wayne and Glenn splitting eight first places. Wayne had the top 132-pounder in Mike Lazarz while his teammates Chris Bachus (145), Mitch Dart (178) and Leverenz (191)

Glenn's gold medalists were Paul Demers (98), Tim O'Neil (105), Jeff Doyle (165) and heavyweight Robinson.

Belleville was represented on the winner's dais by Joe Justin (119), Mark Ford (126) and Carl Winekoff (191).

The tournaments' outstanding wrestler's award went to Reg

Gourd, a 112-pounder from Dearborn Edsel Ford. Gourd, who is the recipient of the award for the second year in a row, chalked up four victories by falls in an elapsed time of 10:39.

Medals were presented to the top four wrestlers in each of the 13 weight classes and team trophies went to the championship team and runners-up.

Belleville Coach Gerald Malecek feels there's some kind of "jinx" on his team that prevents it from winning a trophy at wrestling tournaments and invitational.

"I don't know what it is," Malecek said, "but we just can't get one of those things (trophies). Last week we finished second at Bedford and they awarded a trophy only to the winner."

"This week we finished third and, of course, only the top two teams got trophies and, last year at the districts we were nosed out by a half-point for first place — and, you guessed it, only the district winner got a trophy. Nothing for the bridesmaid, it seems," Malecek moaned.

There should be a law against it, Jerry, but there isn't.

Best in Great Lakes 8

Wayne Memorial apparently has a monopoly on Great Lakes 8 Conference championships. The latest to join the championship ranks is the Zebras' girls' basketball team. Wayne compiled a 7-1 won-lost record to claim the conference title and finished the season with an over-all 14-5

Inkster, Robichaud to clash in SAC league cage opener

And none other than a natural rival, Dearborn Heights Robichaud will do the testing.

The two neighborhood rivals will meet at Inkster High and a standing room only crowd will be on hand to witness the duel between Coach George Thompson's Vikings and Francis McCauley's Bulldogs.

McCauley, who sat out last year at Robichaud, returned this year to take command of the team which is presently sporting a 1-1 nonleague record.

"We don't have much size," McCauley commented, "however this team will play with the best of them. We have good speed and can run thanks to the acquisition of Jonathan Bond."

Bond is a 6-4 transfer student from Gabriel Richard.

McCauley also has a couple of deadeyes in 5-6 guard Melvin Ballard and 6-0 forward-guard Alvin Carter.

The Bulldogs also use Michael Morgan, a 6-0 senior and Victor Long, a 6-2 forward in their senior line-up.

The Dearborn Heights cagers warmed up for their confrontation with Inkster with a 76-64 victory over Willow Run, a nonleague rival. They started the season against an always-tough Class A rival, Ann Arbor Pioneer, which buried the Bulldogs, 82-56.

Against Willow Run's Flyers, Robichaud jumped out in front 24-9 in the first period and never looked back. Though the Flyers attempted to stay in the game in the second eight minutes, they still trailed by 13 points at intermission (39-26).

Robichaud outscored their rivals 20-12 in the third period to seal their first victory of the season.

"We looked a lot sharper than we did against Ann Arbor," McCauley commented. "We're going to have to improve in order to compete in the league."

Ballard, who sank seven field goals and hit on three free throws paced all scorers with 17 points. Also in double figures were teammates Morgan and Kendall who accounted for 15 and 14 points, respectively. Long chipped in with 12.

The Bulldogs made eight of 12 free throws while Willow Run cashed in on nine of 15.

Willow Run received 12 points from Maurice Smith and Keith Gardner had 11.

Wayne opens league with easy mat victory

Wayne Memorial launched the defense of its share of the Great Lakes 8 Conference wrestling championship with a lopsided 70-4 victory over Taylor Truman.

Coach John Wood isn't expected to encounter any difficulty from his league rivals until the Zebras clash with Monroe, the owner of the other half of the title.

Wayne wrestlers counted 11 victories by falls against Truman which is regrouping its forces after canceling out the last part of the 1976-77 season.

Wayne will meet some of the tougher teams in the area on Saturday when it hosts its quadrangular meet which will bring together teams from Dearborn Heights Annapolis, Hazel Park and Farmington.

Price is right for Churchill

Fred Price is learning why basketball coaches usually end up with ulcers.

Price, who replaced the veteran Pat Montagano as the head coach at Livonia Churchill, won his two starts but he had to sweat for them.

The Livonians won their season opener 52-50 at the expense of a visiting Dearborn quintet last Tuesday, then dumped Walled Lake Western 66-51 to launch their defense of the Western Six Conference basketball championship.

"We're making mistakes, a lot of them and they will cost us in the long run," Price said. "Would you believe we had something like 35 turnovers in the opener?"

The Chargers can thank Craig Hanton for the victory in the first game. Hanton came out of a scramble beneath the boards with the ball and flipped it into the basket for the decisive two points. He also scored the team's last six points.

"We were down by five points but the kids didn't lose their poise," Price pointed out. "They came back and that's what is important."

Dearborn grabbed a 13-11 lead after the first period and widened it to 25-22 at the end of the initial half.

The Chargers countered with a balanced attack in the third period as Dave Krick sank six points and Hanton and Ray Progar each had four to lift the Livonians within a basket, 42-40, of catching the Pioneers. They went on to outscore their visitors 12-8 in the final eight minutes.

Krick wound up with individual scoring honors for the winners with 15, while Hanton added 14. Dear-born's Pat Rombach led all scorers with 19 points.

Both teams looked pathetic at the free throw line where the Chargers made a mere six of 17 shots; Dearborn sank eight of 20 chances.

Churchill also needed a second half rally to yank loose the victory from Walled Lake. The Chargers fell behind 18-16 after the first period, then came back to take a narrow 29-28 halftime lead. The Chargers got

Coach of the Year

Moshimer earns coveted title

Coaches usually admit to "cycles" when it comes to athletic talent. Some years there is an abundance of it while during others there may not be.

There is an exception, and that's at Plymouth Salem where Tom Moshimer seems to manufacture his own football talent each year.

When you play Salem in football, coaches say, you better come prepared to play or the Rocks will bury you. And that has been true for over a decade since the 42-year-old Moshimer took over the reins as head coach.

This year was another one of those superb years at Plymouth where Moshimer and his staff guided the Rocks to a flawless Suburban 8 Conference record, finished the regular season 9-0 then entered the Class A playoffs where they lost to state finalist, Portage Central.

Moshimer's achievements has earned him The Associated Newspapers' "Coach of the Year" award.

It isn't the first — and you can bet it won't be the last — honor that has been bestowed upon the genuinely dedicated high school coach. He has been named as coach of the year to numerous mythical teams over the past 11 years since leaving Dundee High for Plymouth.

Moshimer prepped at Northville High, then went on to Michigan State University where he spent two years in engineering.

There is nothing really unorthodox about Moshimer's coaching philosophy or his style — his credos are simple: "stick to basics and you can't go wrong."

This year he had one of the top quarterbacks in the state in Rich

Hewlett to run his wishbone offense and the Rocks rolled to a record season.

Moshimer knows that "you have to be good in the Suburban 8 or you're destined for trouble." The league has produced some of the finest athletes and teams, and college scouts constantly raid the "8" ranks seeking recruits.

And why hasn't Moshimer joined the ranks of college coaches — his high school record would warrant him a shot at coaching on the college level.

"I'm very happy coaching on the high school level," Moshimer explained. "I enjoy high school-age kids and I think what we have been able to accomplish here has been very rewarding."

points. Teammate Herb Burrus chipped in 18.

The Pioneers had four players in double figures including Pat Rombach who scored 11 of his team high 17 in the first period. Paul Kendrick added 15 while Craig Wolter and Chris DeGiullo chipped in with 13 and 10 points, respectively.

Dearborn had the edge on the boards 39-31 but the ratio was onesided in the Pioneers' favor the first half when they picked off 26 to Belleville's 13. The Tigers shot 43 percent (26 of 61) from the floor while Dearborn made 21 of 45 for 45 percent.

Belleville began the season at Ypsilanti and after establishing an 18-12 first period lead, slipped the rest of the way and dropped a 65-53 decision.

"We played a good first period, then it was all downhill from then on," Niemi pointed out. "We attempted to play street ball with them in the second half and they showed us they are better at it than we are."

Patterson started his junior year with 21 points, the game's high and Burrus was the only other Tiger cager in double figures. He had 12.

Huron

Earlier in the week the New Boston quintet demolished River-view's Gabriel Richard 58-47 as four Huron players scored in double figures. Knight collected 15 and Pichan had 12 while Reitz and Smith split 22 points between them.

Coach Smith had an opportunity to go to his bench liberally as the Chiefs rushed out in front 12-6 in the first period and stood atop of a 28-12 halftime lead.

Monroe Catholic Central will invade Huron Friday night for the Chiefs' next league confrontation. Monroe, though beaten twice, has lost in the closing minutes of the game.

"They've had some hard luck, losing a couple of close games," Coach Smith said. "We just hope that their luck doesn't improve at our expense."

Romulus give state cage power Flint Beecher a scare

Talk about a minority group, and Romulus cagers have to be in the forefront.

A rash of defections to area high schools after several millage setbacks has left rookie cage coach Rod Hanna with about six players he can count on in pressure situations.

And that lack of experience cost the Eagles a 52-45 loss at the hands of Dearborn Heights Annapolis last week in the season's opener and, on Friday, Romulus succumbed to Class B state powerhouse, Flint Beecher, 67-50.

"I used only six players against them (Flint) and one of them got hurt," said Hanna. "And, despite the lack of experience on this team we showed a lot out there—I'm proud of these kids. We're going to be all right."

Beecher, with a front line of 6-9½ center John Wiley and a couple of 6-5 forwards, had their problems taking the boards away from the smaller Romulus quintet in the first period. The Eagles stood their ground and trailed by two, 14-12, for the first eight minutes and exchanged baskets equally with their visitors (10-all) the second period.

Beecher pulled away in the third period with a 20-13 scoring edge, then polished off the Eagles in the finale 24-15.

Darnell Lewis, a sophomore, scored six of his team high 17 points in the first period and wound up with nine rebounds. Teammate John Kersey had 14 points and 11 rebounds while Richard Lewis accounted for 11 points.

Williams was the top scorer for the evening as he drilled in 23 points for the winners. Wiley was forced to settle for 10 points while Nate Walker contributed 14.

Trailing by three points in the final 40 seconds at Annapolis, Romulus missed an excellent chance to give their first year coach a victory as they fell to the Dearborn Heights cagers 52-45.

Annapolis stalled the last 2½ minutes of the game, forcing the Eagles to foul to gain possession of the ball, however, the Cougars were deadly at the line and Jim Green made eight charities to assure themselves of the victory.

Ahead 14-10 at the end of the first period, Annapolis found itself deadlocked at halftime at 28, then outscored their visitors by four (12-8) to take a slim lead into the final stanza. With Tony Marjanovich showing the way, the Cougars held on to win their opener for first year coach Larry Jackson.

Jackson, former head coach at Livonia Bentley, has taken over from Michael Bird who resigned at the end of the season a year ago.

"Annapolis played a good zone defense against us," Hanna said. "And we also had a rash of turnovers in the third period that hurt us."

"We're not in shape, but these kids will come along - watch," Hanna insisted.

Buy a Home Now and Save

The average price of an existing one-family house in Wayne County is increasing at a rate slightly faster than the rate of inflation. And the price of new houses is increasing at a much faster rate.

For instance, if you buy a home or condominium now at $200 per month, your payments will remain constant over the years — even as your income increases. So ten to 20 years from now your house payments will be what they are today.

That's why investing in a home today is probably the most sensible way to fight inflation.

So come take a tour through the real estate section of this week's paper and get a spectacular view of what's happening in this areas house market.
